King Carol II Abdicates: Son Is Successor

Anti-Jewish Riots Break Out In Bucharest As Crown Changes Hands At Instance Of Iron Guard

BUCHAREST, Sept. 6.—Princess Helen, divorced wife of the abdicated King Carol, arrived in Bucharest by airplane today to be with her son, the newly proclaimed King Michael of Rumania. She was said to have come from Dresden, Germany, but this was not confirmed.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 6.—King Carol II surrendered today to the demands of Rumania's new military dictatorship, abdicated in favor of his 18-year-old son Michael, and was authoritatively reported to have left Bucharest to join Magda Lupescu on a royal yacht, bound for exile.

Prince Michael immediately was proclaimed king-successor to his father, but only to be a figurehead under stern Gen. Ion Antonescu, to whom Carol first yielded his kingly powers and at whose demand he finally gave up the throne.

While a wild, strained enthusiasm swept the capital at the proclamation of Michael's succession, 46-year-old Carol was said to have left by special train for Constanta, there to board the royal yacht Lucea Sarul aboard which his titian-haired friend, Madame Magda Lupescu, was said to have been waiting for five days. She had been banished.

Carol was believed by some to be en route to Egypt. But there was no confirmation of this, and other observers supposed he might seek exile more distant from his dismembered Balkan realm — possibly some place in America. Switzerland had been suggested earlier as a place of refuge.

JEWS BEATEN

Gangs of anti-Semitic Iron Guard, which Carol had outlawed and hundreds of whose members had died before his firing squads, roamed Bucharest, beating Jewish shopkeepers who failed to hang out pictures of Michael in their windows.

Much of the clamor for Carol's abdication and Michael's succession had come from the Iron Guard. Michael had been king under a regency a decade ago

KING CAROL ASKS FAITH FOR HIS SON

BUCHAREST, Sept. 6—The text of King Carol's proclamation of his abdication:

Very serious times have come upon my country. It is 10 years since I undertook a position of grave responsibility, becoming sovereign ruler of my country. I immediately began working with all my energy in behalf of my country and with great love. I did everything my conscience dictated for the good of Rumania.

Today misfortune has come upon our country. She finds herself facing grave peril. I want to eliminate these perils by turning over to my son, whom I know you love a great deal, every chance of being king.

I make this sacrifice to save the country. I pray God it will not be in vain. I leave to my people my precious son, and I beg all Rumanians to surround him with warm faith and complete love so he may find in them the support he needs in the difficult responsibility which from now on will rest on his shoulders.

I pray that my country may be safeguarded by the God of my ancestors and that she may have a splendid and magnificent future.

FIRMS FINED FOR FORMING COMBINATION

TORONTO, Sept. 6—Nineteen Ontario paper box companies and one individual were found guilty of combining in restraint of trade in a judgment issued here today by Mr. Justice J. A. Hope of the Supreme Court of Ontario and fines ranging from $10,000 to $2,500 were imposed.

Thirteen companies were fined $10,000 each, five companies were fined $5,000 each and one company was fined $2,500. The judge said he wished the penalties to be deterrent to combine practices and not ruinous to the companies concerned.

The convictions took place under the Combines Section, No. 490, of the Criminal Code of Canada.

H. J. Badden, president of Container Materials, Limited, was fined $4,000 with the alternative of six months in jail.

Will Move Nazis From Ceded Areas

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—Six hundred German experts in resettlement work, with chauffeurs for trucks and medical personnel, have started or are starting soon for Bessarabia and northern Bucovina, territories recently ceded by Rumania to Soviet Russia, a high foreign office official disclosed today. The Germans are to bring to East Prussia and former Polish territories annexed to the Reich some 90,000 Germans from Bessarabia and 38,000 from northern Bucovina.

Rescue Prisoners

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The Admiralty announced tonight that the British submarine Truant had rescued the crew of a British merchant ship and a party of Norwegian sailors from a German prize crew which had taken charge of the ship, and had made the Germans prisoners.

Youths Withdraw

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6—The Greater Winnipeg Youth Congress last night decided to withdraw from the Canadian Youth Congress. It passed a resolution charging the national body no longer represented Canadian youth and had refused to support the present war.

BRITISH NAVY, AIR FORCE IN BIG OFFENSIVE

Italian Bases Along 1,100-Mile Front Are Bombed and Shelled

ROME, Sept. 6.—British air raiders attacked the Turin area of northern Italy during the night, inflicting "damage of some importance" to private dwellings, the Italian high command admitted today.

CAIRO, Sept. 6—Britain's Navy and Air Force are engaged in their biggest offensive of the war against Italy along an 1,100-mile front in the Mediterranean it was disclosed today.

Airplane bases in Sardinia, between Italy and Spain, and airplane bases all along the coast of Italian Libya have been bombed by British aircraft. Planes and warships combined have bombarded the Italian Dodecanese Island and submarines have attacked Italian warships.

ITALIAN FLEET FLEES

In communiques on it's fleet's operations, the admiralty headquarters here has emphasized that every effort was made to engage the main Italian battle fleet but it eluded every attempt, and fled to home bases.

During operations extending over a week, the admiralty said, it took occasion to send strong naval reinforcements to the eastern Mediterranean—apparently an implication that further and more extensive naval operations against the Italians might be expected.

FLED FOR TARANTO

It was asserted that British airplanes sighted the Italian battle fleet 150 miles away from the British fleet. The Italian fleet included

CANADIAN FORCE IN BRITAIN NOW ABOUT 46,000

OTTAWA, Sept. 6—Arrival of the latest contingent of Canadian troops in the United Kingdom brings Canada's military establishment there close to the maximum contemplated for the present.

Naval Minister Macdonald today said 11,500 Canadian soldiers and 33 Canadian nurses, largest of six big Canadian contingents to go overseas since the war began, crossed in the convoy which arrived Wednesday and gave a flat denial to a Nazi claim that a troopship carrying Canadians was sunk.

While there has been no official statement from the national defence department on the number of Canadian troops in the United Kingdom, British newspapers placed the number at 35,000 recently. Thus the latest contingent brings the total to more than 46,000.

Not a single Canadian life was lost at sea from enemy action in the movement of these troops overseas. The movement started last December and over a period of nine months the rate of movement was about 1,200 a week.

The navy minister said also that a group of 14 cadets bound for the Royal Navy training school in England was included in the contingent of Canadians safely landed in England this week.

These young men will be trained in England for commissions in the Royal Canadian navy.

Banks Won't Make Loans To Farmers On Stored Wheat

Financiers Suggest Wheat Board Advance Money On Wheat Payments

OTTAWA, Sept. 6. — General managers of chartered banks who met with the cabinet wheat committee have rejected a proposal that the banks make loans to prairie farmers with wheat stored on farms, together with a 15 per cent government guarantee on the total loan, as security, it was learned on good authority today.

The bankers met with the wheat committee yesterday as discussions, opened early in the week, went forward in an effort to devise some means of makking a cash advance to farmers on the grain which must be stored on farms due to lack of available elevator space.

The bankers, it was said, suggested instead that the wheat board advance the farmers a portion of the wheat payments guaranteed on the 70-cents-a-bushel for No. 2 Northern basis and pay the balance when the farmers were in a position to deliver the wheat to the elevators.

MORE CONFERENCES

The conferences now going on in Ottawa will continue tomorrow. As the situation now stands farmers are unable to cash in on their grain crops until the grain has been delivered to the Canadian Wheat Board and lack of room in elevators

CITY RECEIVES ENGLISH STEEL DESPITE WAR

Hitler may scream his boast that Britain is totally blockaded. Herr Goebbels' lie factory may flood the world with fables that British industry has been smashed, but always, in the least expected manner, and the most unlikely places comes refutation of the propaganda from Berlin.

It's now Edmonton's turn to give the lie to the rantings from Berlin.

Last March the city commissioners placed an order with a British firm for the supply of $9,000 worth of street car wheels. The order stipulated delivery to be made in October.

The order, intact, came to Edmonton Thursday, several weeks before the stipulated delivery date.

"This is the answer to the lies of Hitler and his gang. Britain still rules the waves, and British workmen still see that British industry fulfills its commitments," proudly stated Mayor John W. Fry.

GENERAL ION ANTONESCU'S assumption of dictatorial powers in Rumania following abdication of King Carol, strengthens Germany's position in southeastern Europe against any possible Russian effort to redress the Balkan balance of power. General Antonescu is pro-Nazi and anti-Russian. He would co-operate enthusiastically with Hitler if it became necessary to check Stalin.

At the same time Antonescu may be expected not to take the initiative in challenging Russia. He is ambitious to regain Bessarabia and Bukovina for Rumania but he will be subject to advice from Berlin in establishing his foreign policy. Carol's abdication doubtless will be considered sufficient temporary payment for all Rumania's recent territorial losses to Russia, Hungary, and Bulgaria.

Antonescu's major objective will be the strengthening of his country in preparation for a possible future occasion when Rumania can strike with German support. He must acquiesce in Rumanian losses to Hungary and Bulgaria because they were ordered by Germany, but there remains for him the possibility that the Russian seizures eventually may be recovered.

STALIN AFFECTED

Thus, it is Stalin who has reason to be more concerned than anyone else over the sudden elevation to

House Refuses To Change Age Limit In Training Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The United States House of Representatives refused twice today to change the registration age limit of 21 to 44, inclusive, in the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

On a voice vote, Representative Rees (Rep., Kansas), lost in an effort to broaden the spread to include men from 21 to 54, inclusive, and Representative Anderson, (Dem., Missouri), was defeated, 161 to 47, in an attempt to make the brackets conform to the senate's figures of 21 to 30, inclusive.

Obsolete U.S. Tanks May Speed Training Of Canuck Division

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—Formation of a Canadian armored division may be expedited considerably if several hundred obsolete United States tanks are transferred to the Canadian government.

The national defence department has already authorized formation of an armored brigade and Defence Minister J. L. Ralston hopes the brigade may grow into a division.

The immediate need is tanks for training purposes as Canadian factories are now working towards production of modern service tanks.

Military authorities in the capital interested in armored units welcomed the news from Washington about the possible transfer of several hundred tanks to Canada as a partial solution to the problem of equipping the armored brigade for training.

At present Canada has a limited number of the latest model of British light tanks. These are in use at the armored fighting vehicles training centre at Camp Borden. There are not enough, however, to give a full course of training to a brigade.

The new Canadian tank brigade will be under the command of Col. F. F. Worthington, who has been stationed at Camp Borden in command of the armored fighting vehicles training centre and is now in Washington studying United States tank training methods, inspecting their vehicles and discussing the transfer.

The brigade will consist of men from the Ontario Regiment, Oshawa; the Three Rivers Regiment; the 1st Canadian Cavalry Regiment, London, Toronto, Winnipeg and Calgary; and the Fort Garry Horse, Winnipeg. All are Canadian Active Service Force units.

TREATY SIGNED TO FRUSTRATE JAP PROGRAM

U.S. Navy Now Free To Take Sterner Stand In Pacific

By LYLE C. WILSON
British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—The United States today signed conciliation treaties with Britain, Australia and Canada.

The timing of this move—within a few days after the destroyer-naval base trade—gave, in the opinion of observers in Washington, further indication of the world-wide scope of parallel action by the English-speaking nations.

No official comment was forthcoming on the nature or extent of co-operation envisioned between the United States and the three British nations, but action at Washington and London indicated a strengthening of attitude against Japan's ambitions in the Pacific.

Within a few hours of each other, both governments firmly reminded Tokyo of their desire for the status quo of the Pacific, especially concerning French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies.

With America again promised the protection of the British fleet and with her defenses improved as a result of new Atlantic bases, the United States fleet now is free to enforce American policy in the Pacific.

Because of this the treaty with Australia and the scheduled conversations with Australia assume greater importance.

FIRST GROUP OF U. S. DESTROYERS REACHES CANADA

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 6.—A group of United States destroyers—part of the 50 warcraft to be turned over to Britain under the destroyer-defence base exchange—arrived in port out of the dense fog along the coast today.

The trim men-o-war were the first of the over-age vessels to reach an Empire port. They will be manned by British crews and brought into the conflict as swiftly as possible.

(Under an agreement reached by the two nations, Britain will receive 50 destroyers from the United States in exchange for leases for the establishment in the British West Indies of naval and air bases for the protection of the Western Hemisphere.)

The transfer of the destroyers from United States officers and men to the British command will proceed under plans that will have the vessels speeding to battle stations as soon as possible.

Black Eliminated In Jasper Tourney

JASPER PARK LODGE, Sept. 6.—In the morning rounds of the Totem Pole golf championship here today Don Thompson, Portland, defending champion, eliminated Herb. Black, Calgary, former holder, 5-3 in the top half of the draw. In the lower half Dr. Janson defeated Dr. Houston on the 18th green. Both players are from Seattle. Janson and Thompson will meet over the 36-hole route in the finals tomorrow.

Massed Plane Groups Attack London Area

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Large formations of German aircraft battered at the air defences of London throughout today. Air raid sirens sounded four times during the day, after a night attack had kept residents of the capital under cover for seven hours and 33 minutes.

The purpose of the Nazis in sending wave after wave of bombers, escorted by fighters, against the metropolitan area appeared to be to attempt to wear down the Royal Air Force by incessant attack.

While the fourth raid of the day on London was in progress, the air ministry announced the R.A.F. long-range bombers had attacked the Fiat airplane engine works in Turin, northern Itly, during the night.

The last attack of the day on London lasted 36 minutes.

The Air Ministry said intensive air battles resulted in turning back attacks on several airdromes as the Germans attempted to force their way up the Thames valley toward London, but that only slight damage was done to one factory in the area.

A row of 40 houses was damaged in a dawn raid in London. Splinters killed a woman in that attack.

350 PLANES TAKE PART

Later reports indicated 350 bombers and fighters had crossed the coast to make the first of the series of attacks on London and the southeast.

The growing intensity of the Nazi attacks on Britain followed within a few hours Prime Minister Churchill's warning that raids in September would probably "magnify and multiply."

Roof-top observers heard the booming of anti-aircraft fire and the sound of explosions. At a tremendous height over one district of the London area white streams of smoke were visible though planes could not be seen.

It was an uncanny experience to watch the intricate smoke patterns woven. The manoeuvres suggested a dogfight was in progress.

RUSSIAN-TYPE BOMBS

"It seemed as if a skein of white wool were suspended over the London area," said one eye-witness.

The Press Association said Molotoff "bread baskets" may have been dropped on the capital for the first time during the night raid. The Agency's roof-top reporter described seeing "A rosy red glow in mid-air which faded with a deafening explosion and brilliant streaks across the night sky."

The bread basket, named for Premier Molotoff of Soviet Russia after the device was used in the Finnish war, holds a cluster of 100 incendiary bombs which usually burn out quickly.

In two cases formidable formations of Goering's Luftwaffe made airdromes their objective today but failed to hit them.

JAPS GET FREE HAND IN EAST FROM PETAIN

Agreement Reported Between Vichy and Tokyo On French Indo-China

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Reuters News Agency reported in a Chungking dispatch today that well-informed quarters in the Chinese capital said French Indo-China had agreed to the landing of 12,000 Japanese troops at three Indo-China ports.

HONG KONG, Sept. 6—Authoritative Hanoi quarters reported today a general agreement governing military facilities to be granted the Japanese in French Indo-China was reached last night between French Governor-General Admiral Jean Decoux and Japanese Major General Issaku Nishihara.

Details of the agreement were not announced. It was said negotiations were continuing.

Reports yesterday had said a preliminary agreement had been reached between Tokyo and Vichy giving Japan a "limited" right to land her troops and supplies at Haiphong and move them over the Indo-China railway to the border of Yunnan, southwest China, for the campaign against the Chinese.

That preliminary agreement, it was said, was made subject to negotiation of details at Hanoi.

Junior Chambers Would Increase Their War Work

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—Methods of increasing their contribution to Canada's war effort is the basic topic before the conference of the junior chamber of commerce and the junior boards of trade. Representatives are here from all sections of Canada and the organizations they represent have a membership of over 10,000.

Newspaper and radio campaigns being carried on by western bodies to raise funds for the purchase of war equipment were outlined. The representative of the French-Canadian sections, Antoine Demerais, Montreal, told of the organization of 228 members into an officers' training corps. The unit has just completed training at camp and a number of members have joined active service units.

Surprisingly Little Damage By Bombing Throughout Britain

By HUGH WAGNON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 6.—A nationwide survey by the Associated Press, completed today, shows Britain is tending to "business as usual" despite the damage and death inflicted by German air raiders.

From the white cliffs of Dover to Land's End on the south coast, in the industrial midlands and the great harbors of Hull and Liverpool, Portsmouth and Southampton, Bristol and Plymouth, our staff were permitted to go freely to see for themselves the extent of damage—and the lack of it.

Dover, focal point of attack by air and artillery across the channel, is surprisingly free of extensive destruction, the inhabitants are repairing homes and even building new ones in the face of Nazi air squadrons which daily roar overhead.

ONLY ONE BOMB

At the great naval base of Portsmouth, raiders once succeeded in dropping a bomb in the courtyard of the barracks but little damage was done and no one was hurt. Most of the fatalities there have been among civilians.

At Southampton, police gave me carte blanche not only to go where I pleased but also to photograph what I pleased. One bomb had set fire to a cold storage warehouse and a few houses had been wrecked here but the streets were filled with shoppers. The shops and great fruit and meat storehouses were amply supplied.

LITTLE DAMAGE

Plymouth and Bristol, although frequently attacked, showed little evidence of bombings.

Around the greater London area, the heaviest toll has been taken in the matter of sleep. High explosive and incendiary bombs have caused negligible damage—and that chiefly to residential property.

Liverpool, still one of Britain's busiest ports, has been the target of numerous fire bombs, some of which started small fires on the docks, but these soon were extinguished.

A survey of the towns and countryside gives the impression damage is of infinitesimal proportions.

NEW WAR LOAN WILL PAY MORE THAN THREE P.C.

Finance Minister Makes Public Details Of New Issue

OTTAWA, Sept. 6 — Canadian investors will be called upon next Monday morning to subscribe to Canada's second war loan when 12-year bonds bearing coupons at three per cent will be offered to the public at $98.75, which means an average interest yield of 3.125 per cent.

Finance Minister Ilsley last night announced details of the new issue which will go on sale at nine o'clock Monday morning in all cities and towns. Bonds sold for cash will be limited to $300,000,000.

Provision is made for holders of 4½ per cent bonds, which matured Sept. 1, to convert their bonds to the new issue. It is understood about $70,000,000 of such bonds have not yet been redeemed. If offered for conversion the holders will receive $100.25, which means a cash settlement as between the price of the new bonds and that figure.

Mr. Ilsley said he expected the issue to be oversubscribed.

FULLY REGISTERED

In that event, the $300,000,000 will be allocated under a system designed to give preference to small investors. The coupon bearing bonds, dated Oct. 1, 1940, will be in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000. Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid by cheque, will be in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000.

Successful disposal of this loan will mean that, after a year of war, the government is able to borrow money at an interest rate lower than when hostilities were just getting under way. Last January, the first war loan, amounting to $250,000,000, including conversions, was sold at a rate of 3¼ per cent yielding an average of 3.25 per cent.

Finance department officials said that, so far as they were aware, the rate on the forthcoming loan was as low as that paid on similar bonds in any part of the empire outside of the United Kingdom, and possibly lower.

Principal of the new bonds will be payable without charge in the lawful currency of Canada at Halifax, Saint John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Vancouver.

INTEREST PAYMENTS

Interest will be payable semi-annually April 1 and Oct. 1 in the lawful money of Canada, without charge, at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank.

The bonds may be redeemed in whole or in part at par value on and after Oct. 1, 1940, or on any subsequent interest date, on 60 days' notice.

Because the smaller investors have an opportunity to put their surplus in war savings certificates it was decided not to issue the new bonds in denominations lower than $100, Mr. Ilsley said.

Preparations for flotation of the second war loan have been going forward for some time and a strong national committee of 200 has been appointed to assist in marketing it.

SELLING AIDS

In the first Great War, when bonds of this type were a new experience for private investors, there was a much greater sales effort. Interest rates ranged up to six per cent and holders, in several issues, were relieved from income tax payment on their interest returns.

Newspaper advertising, radio talks and posters will be the chief aids to selling this issue. Mr. Ilsley is expected to make at least one broadcast appeal to the people to support the loan.

37 TORPEDOED SEAMEN LANDED BY RESCUE SHIP

BALTIMORE, Sept. 6.—Thirty-seven haggard and dishevelled British seamen, eight of them injured, told a grim tale of disaster and death in the war at sea.

Landed here unexpectedly last night by the Swedish freighter Eknaren, they were sole survivors of crews of two British vessels, the 4,000-ton freighter Blairmore and the Royal Navy sloop Penzance, both torpedoed and sunk Aug. 24 about 700 miles off the Irish coast.

More than 100 of their shipmates were lost.

Their stories, pieced together, indicated the eight injured men were the only survivors of the Penzance.

These, burned, cut and dazed, were among the Penzance sailors taken aboard the Blairmore when it sped to the flaming warship's aid—only to be torpedoed in turn a few minutes later by the same U-boat. With 29 Blairmore survivors they were rescued again by the Eknaren.

So secretive was the Eknaren's voyage that Capt. John H. Taylor, the British consul here, said he knew nothing of the rescue or that the freighter would dock here until late yesterday. The 37 survivors were 17 hours at sea in two of the Blairmore's lifeboats before the Eknaren sighted them.

Britons Must Take Offensive To Win War General Says

HULL, England, Sept. 6.—Lt.-Gen. Sir Ronald Adam, general officer commanding the northern command, told Britons last night that "until we take the offensive we are not going to win this war."

Sir Ronald in a speech urged Britons not to "sit still" but to prepare for the offensive. He said that the "next 15 days will tell us what is to happen," as regards a possible Nazi invasion attempt, and the weather is going to play an important part.

R.C.A.F. Fighter Squadron Gains in Confidence After Lacing German Raiders

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 6 — Canada's Hurricane fighter squadron patrolled its "beat" on the fringe of London yesterday with new zip and confidence after meeting an even number of Goering's raiders and giving them a severe lacing.

A dozen scrappy members of the R.C.A.F. unit commanded by Sqdrn. Ldr. Ernest McNab of Regina caught the same number of Nazi fighters and fighter-bombers "just where we wanted them" in a battle three miles over southern England and took less than two minutes to deliver a knockout blow.

AT LEAST TWO DOWN

Two and maybe three German planes were destroyed.

A blond young skylarker from London, Ont., who shot down one Nazi in flames and clipped the wings of another, returned to the station with the main brace of one wing shattered by Messerschmitt cannon fire.

The other certain kill went to a veteran flier who is a member of a prominent Montreal family of financiers.

The toll taken by McNab's men boosted the total bag for the 19 days they have been in action to at least 10 enemy planes definitely destroyed and about half as many probably destroyed.

Two of the Canadians have had planes shot away from them.

Sqdrn-Ldr. McNab said his boys have already shown "they are a gang of real thoroughbreds" and the way they are standing up to the stiff test makes it obvious they are.

FOUR-HOUR SHIFTS

They are at action station for four hours, subject to half-hour call-up for the next four, then back to the station poised for immediate action for another four.

There is no sign of nerves as the fliers loll about the action station, writing letters home, reading, spinning tales, and sipping soft drinks—and I mean soft drinks.

At present they get a day's leave after four days' duty.

U. S. EXPERTS ARE IN BERMUDA TO STUDY DEFENCE

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 6—The 10,000-ton United States cruiser St. Louis steamed into Hamilton harbor Thursday with defence experts aboard, signalling the opening action to establish U.S. bases on British possessions.

The United States experts are here to study the possibilities of establishing a defence base in Bermuda for the protection of the western hemisphere. Similar naval and air bases will be established at points in the British West Indies and Newfoundland also leased by Britain to the United States. Rear-Admiral J. W. Greenslade headed the United States delegation.

The American officers began their survey almost immediately. While some of them toured Bermuda in one of the few automobiles permitted on the colony, others flew over the group of islands in planes launched from the St. Louis soon after its arrival.

The United States experts will carry on discussions with Governor Sir Denis Bernard and Vice-Admiral Sir Kennedy Purvis.

Admiral Greenslade said in an interview the United States experts would remain in the British colony for "several days" and he was anxious to be here Sunday to attend the cathedral Empire day of prayer for peace.

Supremacy Drive Barrel Trip Ends 161-Mile Voyage

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Sept. 16.—New Westminster's air supremacy drive barrel—with a Union Jack flying from its staff—reached the Pattullo bridge here Thursday, ending a 161-mile trip down the Fraser river and a campaign to raise funds to buy training planes for Canadian student pilots.

The barrel, launched on Labor Day at Lytton, B.C., crossed the sights of the official timer yesterday, exactly 70 hours, 36 minutes and 42 2-5 seconds after it was skidded into the water north of here.

Tickets were sold with a $500 prize to the closest guess on the time the barrel would take on its down river trip. The winner has not yet been announced.

U. S. REPORTED GUARDING MINE IN GREENLAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—The Brooklyn Eagle said Thursday four heavily-armed United States coast guard vessels manned by 500 men have established a protective patrol over Greenland's cryolite mines, the world's only commercial source of the important mineral used in refining aluminum, making it valuable for airplane building.

The state department in Washington forbade officers and crew members of the cutter Comanche, which returned from the Greenland patrol Wednesday, to talk about their work, according to the paper.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The United States coast guard said today Greenland activities of its cutters are restricted to ferrying food and supplies to the natives, in the place of Danish expeditions which ended with Germany's invasion of Denmark.

Neither the coast guard nor state department would say that the cutters' activities had anything to do with Greenland's cryolite mines.

AGITATION FOR PACIFIC BASES IN U. S. HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Acquisition of bases in the Galapagos and Cocos islands to protect the Panama Canal in the Pacific was urged yesterday by Rep. Ed. Izac (Dem.-California).

"With the perfect screen which the new Atlantic and Caribbean bases will afford," Izac told newsmen, "all we need now to make our defence set-up virtually complete are bases in the Galapagos and Cocos islands.

"But we should lose no further time in obtaining them."

Spokesman for a congressional group which has advocated such action, Izac indicated the destroyer-base exchange with Britain would bring a renewed campaign for facilities on the Pacific islands.

Said to be the world's largest prison, Ward Road jail, owned by the Shanghai municipal council, has 7,377 inmates.

NO CANADIAN SOLDIER LOST CROSSING SEAS

Not One Troop Ship Has Been Sunk Since Start Of War

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A NORTH BRITISH PORT, Sept. 6—Except "for a brief spell" when several depth charges were released, the voyage of the largest troop convoy to reach a British port from Canada was described today as "uneventful," with the ocean almost all the way across as calm as a millpond. At that, some of the boys were seasick.

"Some of the boys said they had seen bits of wreckage shot to the surface by the blasts," Sergt. A. Hepburn, of Toronto, remarked. "If we were attacked, the enemy certainly didn't have much chance against our protecting ships. Speedy British war vessels darted about like bees, dropping charges all over the place. We distinctly felt the force of the explosions."

GERMAN CLAIMS

Private A. W. Pratt, of Vancouver, declared that reports had been circulated during the early stages of the voyage that a German radio station had claimed that two of the Canadian transports had been sunk.

"It doesn't look as if we got very wet," said the youngster, who celebrated his 19th birthday en route. "I don't think that any of us were worried about the possibility of an attack. With an escort like we had, I'd take a chance on crossing the pond every day of the week."

OTTAWA, Sept. 6—Since the second Great War, no Canadian troopship has been sunk and no soldier has been lost while being transported across the Atlantic for duty in Britain, defence department authorities said last night.

Their emphatic statement was made in comment on German radio reports that a Canadian troopship, transporting the contingent which arrived in Britain yesterday, had been sunk.

GREAT AMOUNT CRACKED WHEAT FOUND IN CROP

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6.—More cracked kernels are being found in western Canadian wheat this year than ever before, James D. Fraser, chief grain inspector of the Board of Grain Commissioners, said Thursday.

Samples received from some points have contained as high as 18 or 20 per cent cracked wheat, he said.

Dry warm weather at many points had made the grain hard and dry and much of it was easily broken in harvesting operations. The trouble was reported generally from central and southern parts of the prairie provinces. Northern areas with late crops were not affected seriously.

"If there is 12 per cent or over of the cracked grain that can't be removed by a No. 10 screen, the lot is classed as sample red spring wheat broken," Fraser stated.

Lethbridge Board Protests Ruling

LETHBRIDGE, Sept. 6 — The Lethbridge Board of Trade yesterday protested to the Canadian Wheat Board to lowering of grade of wheat owing to presence of cracked kernels.

The board's telegram to the Wheat Board at Winnipeg stated:

"General alarm sounded on wheat grading number one hard, weighing 66 pounds, reduced to three and four on account of cracked kernels. Enormous loss entailed which is considered unjustified."

(James D. Fraser, chief grain inspector of the Wheat Board, announced in Winnipeg Thursday that samples of wheat this year contained 18 or 20 per cent cracked wheat. "If there is 12 per cent or over of cracked grain that can't be removed by a No. 10 screen, the lot is classed as sample red spring wheat broken.")

The proposal to raise the battalion has been approved by Defence Minister Ralston and Netherlands military mission will come to Canada from England to work out the details. The mission will be headed by Maj. G. J. Sas of the Netherlands artillery.

He will act as the representative of the district officer commanding, Brigadier C. E. Connolly, D.S.O., in the camps and will be the liaison officer between M.D. 13 and the divisional registrar.

Soldier Tells Story Of Mountainous Trek Through Scandinavia

A NORTHERN BRITISH PORT, Sept. 6.—Epic tales of a trek across 200 mountainous miles of Scandinavia into the security of Sweden were told by British soldiers repatriated to the United Kingdom many weeks after the end of the ill-fated Norway campaign.

A party of 125 reached this port to tell of hiking across deep valleys, over precipitous snowclad mountains and through icy rivers before they reached Sweden and were interned.

Sergeant G. S. W. Frank of the York and Lancaster regiment said he and his comrades met superior German forces in battle near Sjoa, 400 miles south of Narvik, on April 26. Eventually they had to withdraw.

SNOW FIVE FEET DEEP

Frank took charge of 70 men and retreated into the mountains. Several times they were heavily ambushed. Finally they split into small parties and then followed days and nights of retreat, scaling mountain slopes five feet deep in snow, sometimes fleeing from the ubiquitous Germans.

"Some of the men became so weak we had to leave them in caves," Frank said. "We never knew what became of these men. We sheltered in mountain caves or farmers' outhouses. Once we were five days without food and had to eat snow."

The sergeant said he stayed in hiding for a month with a Norwegian farmer while others struggled on by themselves.

STARTED FOR NARVIK

He got civilian clothing and a supply of food and started for Narvik. En route he heard the Allies had evacuated that Arctic port so he headed for the Swedish frontier and was interned with others who had arrived ahead of him.

While the party was being repatriated to the United Kingdom, Germans interned in Sweden were being sent back to their own country, Company Sergeant-Major John T. McCarthy said.

The party reached Britain by ship from Petsamo, Finland.

PEOPLE OF U.S. AID PROBLEM OF EVACUEES

Take Warm Interest In Welfare Of British Children

By GLADYS ARNOLD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—People of the United States are taking "a warm, neighborly interest" in the problem of bringing British children to Canada in war time, Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University and chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Overseas Children, said Thursday night.

Contributions of $5,000 each have come from Mrs. J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie.

In her letter to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, enclosing her donation to the committee fund, Mrs. Rockefeller said, "I hope the people of Canada realize how much the people of this country respect and admire them and how eager we are to stand by them and be helpful. Naturally I personally am very much interested in the effort you are making to bring over to peace and safety the English children."

WILL DONATE

Wrote Mrs. Carnegie: "May I ask if you would be willing to accept further donations, small as well as large from time to time, for I find the idea is meeting with hearty response among my friends."

The advisory committee, formed a week ago, will supervise the Canadian visit of British children who came to the Dominion under auspices of the British, Canadian and provincial governments to stay in the homes of families who have thrown open their doors to the young evacuees.

So far, said Dr. Wallace, 1,467 British children have reached Canada under the government evacuation scheme, 80 per cent. of them being from grant-aided schools in England.

SENT TO PROVINCES

They have been distributed to the different provinces as follows:

Nova Scotia 120, New Brunswick 34, Prince Edward Island 25, Quebec 139, Ontario 596, Manitoba 167, Saskatchewan 101, Alberta 113 and British Columbia 172.

Of these children 828 have gone to homes of relatives or friends and 639 went to homes chosen by officials from among the thousands offered all across the Dominion.

BRITISH AIR BOMBERS CAN TAKE KNOCKS

LONDON, Sept. 6. — Just how much punishment a Blenheim bomber of the Royal Air Force can withstand is instanced by the air ministry news service which tells of one pilot plunging into the sea on a return flight from Germany. The report says:

"For a few moments the airscrew churned the water and the air intake scooped up gallons. Then the craft bounced upward and both engines picked up again. The pilot was able to fly the bomber safely home, although the airscrews were bent, the tail wheel missing, the bomb hatch stove in, and the ails, cowlings, and air intake wrecked.

"Over Bremen, a Whitley bomber was hit by anti-aircraft fire. One engine was put out of action, and the other affected. On that one engine, which had to be most carefully nursed the whole way, the pilot returned to a British airdrome. The greater part of the journey was covered at a height of only 400 feet above the sea."

Conditions Cause Of Highway Deaths

PINCHER CREEK, Alta., Sept. 6.—Deaths of Chief of Police Herbert C. Lewis, 42, Macleod, and Thomas Cooper, 56, Macleod, in a highway accident 15 miles south of Pincher Creek Wednesday were due to injuries suffered in a crash caused by poor driving conditions due to a thunderstorm sweeping the area, a coroner's jury decided last night at the inquest here.

4 Guest Children Found With Fever

FRANCE GIVES JAPS LEEWAY IN INDO-CHINA

Vichy Government Opens Door For Attack On Chinese

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

HONG KONG, Sept. 6.—A preliminary, basic agreement giving Japan right-of-way in French Indo-China for a backdoor attack on China in an effort to wind up the three-year-old war was reported Thursday night by authorities in neutral quarters at Hanoi.

This concession of a "limited" right to land Japanese troops and supplies at Haiphong, was said to have been reached between Tokyo and the Vichy government in France. It was still subject to negotiation of details at Hanoi.

This was the latest and apparently best informed version of the crisis in the most populous segment of defeated France's troubled empire.

THREAT PASSES

Threat of a forcible invasion of Indo-China—the essence of a reported Japanese ultimatum of Monday—appeared to have passed. One explanation was that Maj.-Gen. Issaku Nishihara, Japanese negotiator-in-chief, had overstepped himself.

Confronted with a French warning of armed resistance to any invasion and a declaration that acquiescence would be incompatible with Vichy's instructions, Nishihara, under pressure from Tokyo, was said to have reentered conversations with French colonial officials.

(Britain, meantime, has "reminded" Japan through diplomatic channels that it wants Indo-China's integrity preserved, it was announced in London.)

necessitates holding much grain on farms.

Confronted with the expenditures necessary to provide suitable storage space on the farms, and unable to get cash for their crops the growers have appealed to the government to provide advances on the grain until such time as it can be delivered.

Normal Agencies Of Credit Collapsed

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—Hopes that banks and elevator companies would play a prominent part in the issue of an advance on farm-stored wheat were dimmed today, and action in meeting the shortage of purchasing power in Western Canada due to lack of wheat deliveries has fallen back upon the Canadian Wheat Board.

Canvass of normal credit facilities by the wheat committee of the federal cabinet, members of which on Thursday met top-notch bankers and elevator company executives, appeared to have had barren results. Though the government has already placed a guaranteed minimum price of 70 cents a bushel on all the west's wheat, the ordinary channels of credit are not available to the farmers, many of them unable to deliver any considerable amount of wheat for some months because of the storage situation.

To release the credit blockade of the west now in effect, the federal government will likely have to add to its price guarantee, a 100 per cent guarantee against loss on advances or loans made in advance of delivery of wheat.

Discussions this week in Ottawa have clarified one vital aspect of the wheat problem, that is the virtual breakdown of normal agencies of credit and accommodation to carry the wheat industry over its present difficulty. This does not mean that an advance of 80 to 100 million dollars will not be available, but it does mean that the government, operating through the Wheat Board, will likely have to buy the wheat while it is still on the farms.

PAY ON DELIVERY

Up to now, the guaranteed price of 70 cents for No. 1 wheat at either Fort William or Vancouver, has been payable only on delivery of wheat to the board, or its buying agents, the elevators.

George McIvor, chairman of the wheat board, arrived in Ottawa Friday, and went into conference with Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce.

Mr. MacKinnon told The Bulletin there was no announcement to be made regarding progress on the question of advance. Prior to the meeting Thursday, at which banks and elevator companies were called in, the minister had indicated he hoped for a final decision which could be put into an official announcement.

A lengthy cabinet meeting Thursday was understood to have wheat on the agenda, but no announcement was forthcoming, and whether the details of issuing an advance through the wheat board, as a payment on account of direct purchase, can be worked out in time for a final decision this week, is not known.

FORMER KING MAY RETIRE TO AMERICA

while Carol was living in Paris with Mme. Lupescu.

Police made no effort to control the excesses of the Guardists. Street celebrations of Michael's rebirth to kingship often masked the depredations of the Guardist squads.

It was learned on high authority that Carol slipped away from Bucharest immediately after the dramatic surrender of the throne. Few persons were aware he had gone until hours later.

The royal yacht which had been cruising in the Black Sea, supposedly with Mme. Lupescu aboard, was believed to have been ordered into Constanta to meet Carol's train.

COUNCIL SUPPRESSED

The old crown council, composed of former premiers and close confidantes of Carol, was "suppressed," as the announcement said, shortly after noon today. This had been the highest governing body in the old regime.

The council had made the final decisions on surrender of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to Russia last June and northern Transylvania to Hungary last week. At the same time the mayor of Bucharest, Gen. Dombroski, was dismissed.

Earlier it was reported Antonescu had ordered arrest of other important figures in the Carol regime, including the millionaire munitions manufacturer Milaxa and Gen. Constantine Aroetoianu, who was premier after the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu last year.

It was Argetoianu who ordered execution of hundreds of the then outlawed Iron Guard in retaliation for the shooting of Calinescu.

"DIFFERENCES"

The abdication and succession climaxed reported differences between Carol and Michael over the son's sympathy toward the Iron Guard and his desire that his mother, Princess Helen of Greece and divorced wife of Carol, be permitted to return.

At noon Rumania's new dictator, Antonescu, was still without a cabinet. He went to bed for his first real sleep in many days after ordering cancellation of all Rumanian passports.

"HOUSE ARREST"

In a political round-up touched off by the abdication, many persons were placed under "house arrest." It was reported these included Gen. Bengliu, chief of Rumanian police at the time of mass execution of Iron Guardists last year in retaliation for the Calinescu assassination.

Ion Morozeau, chief of secret police; Militza Constantinescu, proally president of the National Bank and former premier; and Geo. George Millail, chief of the Rumanian general staff, were among others.

Gen. Antonescu telegraphed Princess Helen, who had gone from Italy to a sanitorium at Dresden, Germany, saying:

"Your majesty, in the hour in which your son has become king, I beg you to take the first train to arrive as soon as possible to be with your son to aid and lead him."

It was said Princess Helen would comply at once.

Government circles reported that Carol in exile would receive an annual pension equal to $60,000. Close associates of Antonescu said there was a long debate at the palace during the night on Carol's demand for a financial settlement.

PRINCE MAY RETURN

Prince Nicholas, younger brother of Carol, and his wife were reported likely to return to Bucharest from their present home at the Villa Hentschel, in the Suvretta district of Switzerland, near St. Moritz. Nicholas' wife is the daughter of a rich Rumanian industrialist. The prince incurred the displeasure of Carol when he married a commoner.

Michael's first act was to sign over full dictatorial powers to Gen. Ion Antonescu, the iron-willed army leader who had assumed supreme power only 24 hours before Gen. Antonescu issued an order that the Rumanian army must take an oath of allegiance to King Michael by 6 p.m. (1 a.m., M.S.T.).

Carol, whose loves and escapades as Crown Prince earned him a world-wide reputation as a playboy, thus handed back the throne—this time stripped of its authority—to the son from whom he had taken it in a coup in 1930. Michael then had ruled for three years as the world-famed "boy king."

QUIT AT DAWN

Carol abdicated at dawn in the presence of Gen. Antonescu as mobs of Fascist Iron Guardists—supporters of the dictatorship—rioted in the streets, demanding his abdication.

The Iron Guardists had demonstrated most of the night. Steel-helmeted soldiers were called out to protect the palace.

These demonstrations were resumed—but this time in festive spirit—following public announcement of Carol's abdication and Michael's succession. Tens of thousands of persons stormed down Calea Victorrei, carrying flags and photographs of Michael and headed toward the palace.

Banishment of Mme. Lupescu, long an enemy of the army and the Iron Guard, was one of the first results of Gen. Antonescu's bloodless coup.

It was reported in government circles that dozens of men who were political leaders during Carol's 10-year regime—during which he was an active leader of his government—had been, or would be, arrested by the new dictatorship.

ALL PARTY CABINET

As Carol's monarchy thus collapsed, Gen. Antonescu was expected to form a cabinet—he is nominally premier—to include the Peasant party leader, Juliu Maniu, and several Liberal leaders who had refused to collaborate with the General until he had forced Carol's abdication.

The abdication itself was a dramatic event, with Carol, worn and haggard, finally giving in to the demands of the stern-faced Antonescu. The dictator almost immediately took the oath of office under Michael.

Summoned back to the throne which he had relinquished as a lad of eight to his father 10 years ago, Michael received a promise of fidelity from Gen. Antonescu. As this ceremony was concluded, the premier shook hands with the young king, saying:

"Sire, a prayer to God to help Your Majesty and me."

Michael took the oath with a firm voice in front of a microphone at 7:30 a.m. The abdication had been at 6 a.m.

Present at the oath-taking were Gen. Antonescu, the partiarch of the Orthodox church and the president of the supreme court.

CEREMONY BROADCAST

The radio broadcast of this ceremony coincides with great street demonstrations indicating the public's pleasure over the change.

Antonescu issued the following order of the day to the army:

"Officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers:

"His Majesty King Carol II abdicated today, Sept. 6, 1940. Veovod Mihai of Alba Juli has ascended the throne of Rumania.

"In these times of upheaval unite our hearts in hope with the whole nation behind Rumania. The army swears allegiance to the new king. All Rumanians hail Mihai V.

"May God and our ancestors guard our ruler and help him make his reign true and deeds of victory triumph. May the love and devotion of his people be with him.

"Soldiers, the armies of Rumania always will be first in swearing allegiance to the king, therefore today wherever they may be, the soldiers of Rumania will take the oath until 6 p.m. this evening."

Rumanian newspaper censorship was lifted completely as an indication of public celebration.

battleships, cruisers and destroyers, it was asserted, and efforts were made to engage it. But reports of British reconnaissance planes, it was asserted, showed that the whole Italian fleet had turned back immediately on learning that British forces were in the vicinity, and fled for Taranto, the Italian naval base on the Adriatic in the instep of the Italian boot, "at high speed."

The cruiser Orion of the British fleet, the cruiser Sydney of the Australian navy and two destroyers, the Admiralty said, sailed into Italian waters in the Dodecanese islands and shelled the Italian bases at Yalo and Makri. The destroyer, Ilex, it was asserted, sank two of Italy's vaunted "Mas" motor torpedo boats, and damaged two others in harbor. Makri and Yalo were left dotted with six-inch shell holes, it was said, and no building at the bases remained intact.

BRITAIN TAKES MORNING TOLL OF 34 PLANES

the night, killed a few patients and two nurses. Some of the former were trapped under tons of debris. One nurse, clad in night dress, crawled into the wreckage to give the injured injections of morphia.

RUNNING FIGHTS

Terrific running fights developed after one formation of 200 bombers and fighters crossed the southeast coast. At least five of the invaders were sent fluttering to earth as Spitfires and Hurricanes tore into the formations with savage fury, split them up and attempted to send them fleeing back across the channel.

One of the German planes shot down was a Messerschmitt which crashed into a policeman's garden. The pilot was captured unhurt.

Three members of a bomber crew which crashed in flames over a southeastern town crawled out unhurt. The other crewman had baled out.

Enemy planes were believed in the vicinity of northwest and southwest towns in the forenoon.

A single plane dropped bombs in two districts of the London area just before sirens shrilled their dawn warning. The first salvo fell on a roadway without causing casualties. The second salvo damaged a row of 40 houses and splinters killed an elderly woman.

MACHINE-GUN RESCUERS

A Dornier 17 crashed in flames into the channel off southeast England after an engagement with a fighter during the day raid. A vessel which had altered her course to search for survivors was machine-gunned by a Messerschmitt.

Raids during the night were widespread and resulted in fatalities among casualties in many sections of the country.

High explosive and incendiary bombs fell in the London area, and traffic was disorganized in an eastern suburb by hits on a railway station.

A railway station in a northwest English city was hit.

The longest London alarm of the war began at 9:17 p.m. last night and ended at 4:50 a.m. today. Just half an hour after the all clear was sounded, sirens sounded again and held the city under a 31-minute alarm.

The government said the sustained night attack caused a number of casualties, some fatal, in the metropolitan area.

NONE KILLED IN SHELTER

One bomb scored a direct hit on a shelter housing 1,000 persons, but only two persons were injured and none killed.

Several houses were wrecked by explosive and incendiary bombs.

The Nazis also lashed at the industrial midlands, northeast, northwest and southwest England and Wales.

Meanwhile, observers along the southeast coast declared the Germans had evacuated all French civilians from a 30-mile-deep zone of the French coast opposite England. The Daily Mail said it had learned this action was taken to prevent sabotage and spying on military preparations.

Gun flashes and the flare of bombs on the French side of the channel last night indicated the Royal Air Force again attacked Nazi air bases and artillery emplacements.

(Berlin underwent an air raid alarm shortly after midnight, and further evidence of R.A.F. activity over the continent came in alarms over Switzerland which usually indicate British planes en route to northern Italy.)

ITALIAN FLEET WARY

On the Mediterranean front, British fleet operations during a six-day period were reported in an admiralty communique to have been "entirely successful, except that no contact was made between our main forces and enemy warships."

As daylight activity resumed with an air alarm in London during the morning rush hour, fighting occurred not only over the capital, but in the vicinity of the Thames estuary and the southeast coast.

An air battle lasting 10 or 15 minutes was fought near a town in the vicinity of the Thames estuary, where damage was caused by night raids. Sounds of the battle indicated a large number of planes was engaged and that the invaders were flying lower than usual.

Some 200 German bombers and fighters roared in over the southeast coast at an altitude of 15,000 feet but the first wave was scattered by anti-aircraft fire and defence aircraft.

In another district, a succession of heavy explosions rattled windows and drone of the planes was a whining sound as if from dive bombing activity.

During the dawn attack on the London area a middle aged man was killed in a London district when a bomb badly damaged his house. His wife and child were in a shelter and unhurt.

On the outskirts of London, two planes believed to be German plummeted to earth in flames during a 20-minute battle as eight Spitfires tackled a number of Messerschmitt fighters which became detached from a formation of bombers they were escorting.

Ground watchers said one crashed on a golf course, the other "some distance away."

Another German plane crashed near the London area, and its pilot and gunner were taken to a hospital for treatment of minor injuries. A second plane was reported down in this same vicinity.

Lowest barometric pressure ever recorded, at sea level or on land, was 26.35 inches. It was at the Florida Keys during a 1935 hurricane.

Today's War Moves

power of the new Rumanian dictator, who had been held under "preventive arrest" for opposing Stalin's annexation of Bessarabia and Bukovina.

The Communist autocrat will have to interpret the move as potentially dangerous. For Hitler and Mussolini it is a Danubian insurance against the Slavs.

There is irony, however, in a pro-Nazi Rumanian rising to the position of "leader of state" at this time. Antonescu owes his new position to national resentment against the German-Italian command to cede part of Transylvania to Hungary. The reason for this anomaly is the promise of Hitler and Mussolini to prevent any further Rumanian dismemberment. That is a guarantee against Russia and with it the Rumanians can be led by Antonescu to hope for Bessarabia's and Bukovina's return in years to come.

TERRITORY GONE

Rumania can have no hope that Transylvania and Dobrudja will ever be recovered, even though Great Britain wins the war. The justice of Bulgarian and Hungarian claims to the areas that had previously belonged to them would be hard to deny. Rumania must adjust herself to this fact.

Prime Minister Churchill yesterday said he had always thought southern Dobrudja ought to be restored to Bulgaria and he added he had never been happy about the way Hungary was treated after the World War. This pronouncement has much significance, for it is the first intimation of what Britain is prepared to accept in post-war territorial readjustment.

Mr. Churchill asserted that Britain never had claimed there would be no territorial changes in Europe, but they must take place with the free consent of all concerned. Rumania gave consent to the transfers to Hungary and Bulgaria and it is not likely that Antonescu will raise the question of the consent being "free", now or hereafter.

German influence in the Balkans must always be subjected to Russian resentment. It is possible, however, that after the war, if claims against recent Rumanian seizures of British interest are satisfactorily adjusted, Great Britain may not be antagonistic to legitimate commercial competition with Germany in the Danubian regions. Territorial propinquity gives Germany a normal right to attempt peaceful penetration in southeastern Europe, though not military predominance as a permanent policy.

KING AND QUEEN RECALL SQUEEZE MAYOR'S FINGER

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 6.—An unusual reminder of a painful incident came in the mail this week to Vancouver's Mayor J. Lyle Telford.

The letter was from Lt.-Col. J. B. Stevenson, officer commanding the Seaforth Highlanders of the First Canadian Division overseas.

He told of chatting with the King and Queen at Aldershot Camp, and said Their Majesties mentioned many incidents of their brief stay in Vancouver last year.

"They referred especially to the accident in which one of your fingers was crushed in the door of the car," said the letter.

Both were alleged to be members of the outlawed Communist party.

Penner was first sent to an internment camp in Alberta but later brought back to Manitoba and lodged in Headingly jail.

German Thought Hitler Troops Had Landed In England

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Apparently German fliers carrying out bombing raids on England are being told at home that German ground forces have begun to invade England.

The nurse could not convince him there were no German troops in England.

Quick Reaction

A stiffening of the United States' attitude toward Japanese aggression in eastern Asia has followed quickly on the deal by which surplus United States destroyers have been transferred to Britain in return for air and naval bases in the West Indies. That there is relation between the two developments is something more than conjectural.

The strengthening of British naval patrols by the addition to the destroyer branch and the establishment of United States island bases will stabilize the situation in the Atlantic, and leave Washington a free hand in dealing with matters in the Pacific. Practically the entire United States fleet can now be stationed permanently in the western sea. Washington's representations regarding the preservation of international law and treaty rights in the Orient will be more impressive on that account.

Something Must Be Done

Whatever plan may be adopted, some arrangement will undoubtedly be made whereby the western farmer can obtain in advance part of the money for his grain—the bulk of which he will have to store on his farm because of lack of elevator space. This will have to be done to save business conditions from being demoralized and a large number of farmers from a hopeless plight. Without such advance payment a good many would find it impossible to even build granaries in which to properly house the grain.

The Dominion is obligated to see that the farmer gets the initial price of 70 cents per bushel for wheat, basis Ft. William or Vancouver. That is to say, Dominion credit is already pledged to this extent in respect to the entire crop. No additional risk or cost to the public will be involved in arranging that the farmer may collect a part of the value of his grain in advance, the grain itself plus other assets of the grower being security for the money.

An alternative which has some advantages would be to pay the farmer something more than the 70 cent initial price for the 5 bushels per acre he is entitled to deliver to the elevator. This would amount to the same thing as a proportionate advance on his whole crop, one advantage being that the transaction would be completed more quickly and with less interest charges.

One way or another, the farmer will have to get money at once with which to meet harvesting, threshing and storage costs.

The Fugitive Fuehrer

Herr Hitler's speech at the Sports Palace on Wednesday was in the main a repetition of stale misrepresentations and unfulfilled threats. The new matter it contained was an admission that the Fuehrer is behind time in making his promised appearance in London; and a hazy hint that he may call off the projected invasion and leave it to Britain to take the offensive.

There is less in this to arouse interest outside Germany than in the circumstances in which the speech was made.

The audience was composed of relief officials, 25,000 strong, called together to devise ways and means to distribute relief throughout the Reich during the coming winter—the second since the war began. These must surely have recalled that according to the pre-arranged program there was to be no second war winter; the British Empire was to be knocked to pieces in short order, and everybody in Germany would live luxuriously on the spoils.

Moreover, as they must have also remembered, National Socialism was to abolish want in Germany, by working out a perfect system of production and distribution on a basis of national self-sufficiency.

Yet here was an army corps of relief officials, called together because destitution is a nation-wide problem, despite wartime employment, to draw plans to feed the hungry and clothe the naked during a second war winter. Plainly it was time Herr Hitler appeared and explained the tragic gap between his predictions and the hard facts—or diverted attention from it, which he proceeded to do by straffing "England" as usual.

Another circumstance is to be noted. Foreign correspondents in Berlin could not find out where the speech was to be made until it was due to begin. The Fuehrer no longer advertises his appearances in advance. This man, who breathes out threats of utter destruction abroad, dare not let is be known in Germany where and when he is to make a speech. Is he afraid of the conspirators in his own party who arranged the Munich beer-cellar affair, or of the British bombers he affects to despise?

The Fuehrer is obligingly sending Nazi troops to man the Rumanian border and prevent Stalin grabbing any more territory. King Carol has no doubt heard about the man who set the fox to watch the geese. It is his misfortune, however, that he has no choice in the matter.

Despite Premier Hepburn's appeal for postponement, most schools in Ontario opened on Tuesday. A factor in the outcome evidently was the wide declaration from farmers that they didn't want inexperienced town school boys in the harvest fields.

A Vancouver man who gave the wrong address on his registration paper has been fined $100, with the option of spending a month in jail. Parhaps he had been reading Herr Hitler's opinion that the orders of a democratic government cannot be enforced as effectively as the edicts of a totalitarian boss. He knows better now.

The Japs threaten to use Indo-China as a base from which to attack China. To which China's foreign minister responds that Chinese troops will meet them half way and made the French colony a battleground. With a rebellion already under way and two invasions in prospect, Petain's newly appointed governor has close-up evidence of how the Marshal "saved France" by delivering it into the hands of its enemies.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Germany's spokesmen, both at home and abroad, lack logic in their attempts to justify German aggression. Herr Funk, Germany's Minister of Economics, has seized on Col. Lindbergh's recent assertion that "when the rich get too rich and the poor too poor, something happens."

BAD LOGIC FROM LINDY

The over-praised Colonel wasn't discussing such inequalities of riches and poverty as gave rise to the first French Revolution. He had instanced England as a country teeming with riches and Germany as a country enduring poverty. For his pro-Nazi purposes in thus justifying German attempts at world domination he turned a blind eye to the potent fact that for years, in readiness for the day when she should raid her neighbors, Germany had been spending her wealth in training great armies, building up enormous air fleets and mechanized engines of war. Goering was more truthful than Lindbergh when he said "Guns instead of butter."

But even if there was truth to the premises of Col. Lindbergh it wouldn't make out the case for his Nazi friends. Japan has attacked China. Yet the standard of living is lower in China than in Japan. Russia has gobbled up Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and taken slices of Poland and Finland. Was that a case of the poor striking at the rich? Germany seized Austria and Poland. Italy seized Ethiopia and Albania. Obviously it was not their wealth but their weakness that prompted their seizure by the aggressor powers. To accomplish their unscrupulous purposes, the totalitarian powers had to be richer in armies, navies, airfleets and guns than their poorer victims.

The flying Colonel's argument defeats itself. United States as a rich nation should—by his test—be a proper subject for attack by the "poor" totalitarian powers. As an officer in the U.S. forces he should be urging defence measures. The best defence under present conditions is to give large aid to Britain.

Talbot Mundy, who wrote "Winds of The World," "King of the Khyber Pass," "The Hunga Sahib" and over a score more stirring adventure stories—most of them with the scenes laid in India and Afghanistan—died in his bed in Florida a couple of weeks ago, after leading a life more adventurous than any depicted in his stories.

ADVENTURE WAS HIS LOT

Born in England and educated at Rugby, Mundy at the age of 18 persuaded a London editor to send him to India to report the Mahsudi disturbances. The first night in camp, disobeying orders of the commanding officer, he went out alone on a scouting expedition. The Ghurka sentries spotted him and, mistaking him for an enemy scout, rained bullets onto the rock behind which he was hiding. Next morning he was dismissed for disobeying rules.

Thereafter he bossed native work gangs, worked his way to Australia as seaman on a "hell-ship" and thence as stoker on a tramp steamer to Portuguese East Africa where he organized natives for an elephant hunt for ivory. In a battle with native warriors he was wounded with a spear, but managed to escape while the natives were digging a grave in which to bury him alive.

Mr. Mundy—like a certain former bank manager from Edmonton now growing acres of daffodils outside Victoria—owed his career as a writer to getting a crack on the head with a blackjack from a couple of New York gangsters. To while away the time while in hospital he wrote a story based on a personal adventure, sent it to a magazine, and received a cheque and a request for more.

"AFRAID TO BE AFRAID"

That was 32 years ago. Since then he wrote 28 novels, innumerable short stories, radio scripts and motion picture scenarios. His book, "The King of the Khyber Pass" was made into the motion picture "The Black Watch," in which Victor McLaglen starred.

Chatting once with Talbot Mundy about his experiences, he said his life of strenuous experience had started at Rugby, where he was always being made party to a schoolboy's fight.

A kindly fellow, full of friendly feeling, I wanted to know how it was that he managed to get into so many schoolboy scraps. His answer showed an understanding of himself. Said he: "I was naturally of a timid nature, and I was afraid to be afraid to fight."

I think it is in Kipling's "The Drums of the Fore and Aft" that the two kinds of courage are displayed—the courage of the unimaginative Tommies, who go forward afraid of nothing, and that higher courage of the young officer who, victim of imaginative fears, disciplines himself to outface them. Afraid to be afraid.

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

Eighty years ago today (Sept. 6, 1860), the then Prince of Wales (afterwards Edward VII) was welcomed to Toronto with loyal enthusiasm. The occasion is notable because it was the first time that citizens of Toronto wore the maple leaf as the national emblem. There was some opposition by old-timers when the suggestion was first made, because the emblem had previously been adopted in Quebec. Of course, being Toronto, sectional and racial religious bitterness was introduced, but the common sense of the better citizens prevailed and the leaf was generally worn.

Thre was, however, a great deal of bitterness, because the Duke of Newcastle, the young prince's cicerone—he was colonial secretary at home—had obeyed the then existing law of Britain and had refused to recognize the Orange Order, going so far as to prevent the prince landing at Kingston because the Orangemen were on parade. He made it very clear on landing at Toronto that there was to be no sectional demonstration, an order which was obeyed, although when the royal party visited St. James' church on the Sunday the Orangemen erected an arch on the route selected for the return journey, but the duke, hearing of this, altered the route and the prince did not receive an Orange welcome.

This naturally exasperated the brethren, whose boast is their loyalty; they, however, kept their anger under cover until the prince had left. Then it burst into flames and later Hon. J. Hilyard Cameron, the grand master, carried a protest to Queen Victoria in person and the Orangemen were mollified.

Edward's reception in Toronto with its round of functions, dinners, balls, etc., was the prelude to similar doings elsewhere in Upper Canada.

"The people of Italy today are ripe for social revolution of an almost anarchistic nature."—Vincent Sheean.

Current Comment

Canadian Airmen

The all-Canadian squadron of the Royal Air Force has already made a name for itself as one of the toughest fighting units of the entire force. The total number of enemy airplanes it has downed since the start of the war has not been announced but a few weeks ago an unofficial report placed it at about 100. Their show on Friday, in which they added an even dozen to their bag, is a sample of the manner in which they work.

The first squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force, which got into action for the first time on August 24 and which is commanded by Squadron Leader Ernest McNab, formerly of Saskatoon, has already won its spurs with fifteen enemy machines down in six or seven days. No doubt McNab's Nabbers have added more since that report.

The second squadron of the R.C.A.F. is putting the final touches to its training and will be in action any day now. It can be relied upon to maintain the standard set by the first squadron and by the all-Canadian squadron of the R.A.F.

It is to be hoped that the number of squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force overseas will be increased as rapidly as machines and pilots are ready and that every effort will be made to keep the Canadian airmen together as a Canadian air army, just as the land forces are being organized as a Canadian Corps.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

A Two-Billion-Dollar Trade

Canada's external trade will exceed two billion dollars this year for the first time in a decade. Not since the boom of the late twenties have we done so much business with other countries. War is a bountiful jade, and if we have severed commercial relations with enemy and conquered lands, the spectacular increase in our dealings with the British Empire and the United States has more than compensated for the loss elsewhere.

For the seven months ending with July our exports to all countries totalled 648 million dollars, an increase of 169 million dollars over the corresponding period last year, while our imports were 585 million dollars for the seven months ending with July, an increase of 207 million dollars. The United Kingdom, as usual, was our best customer, while the British Empire as a whole took more than half of our exports. The United States, our second largest patron, absorbed slightly more than one-third of our exportable products, including more than 100 million dollars of non-monetary gold and large quantities of newsprint, non-ferrous metals and agricultural products.

Britain drew largely on Canada for foodstuffs—wheat, meats, cheese—and war materials. Our imports from the United Kingdom were smaller than they ought to be, since we spent only 20 cents in the Old Country for every dollar we spent in the United States. This is a condition which could be partly corrected if Canadians would prefer British goods whenever possible. There are none better.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

New Worry for Benito

Return of the African territory of Chad to the company of Free Frenchmen worried the Italians, according to the Rome correspondent of the Chicago Daily News. This "diplomatic stroke," he wrote, faced the Italians with a threat from the south "just when they would like to concentrate their attention on Egypt alone."

Just a day later, from the Italian point of view, the situation was far more serious. All French Equatorial Africa by that time had declared for General de Gaulle—and a look at the map shows the significance of this announcement.

French Equatorial Africa is a long, broad corridor which strikes through the heart of that vast continent from the South Atlantic to the frontier of Italian Libya. British Nigeria and French West Africa are its Western neighbors. On the East it runs beside the Belgian Congo and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Thus the decision of this territory to carry on the war for France has these strategic advantages to the cause of Britain and her Allies

(1) Italian Libya is open to invasion from the South, and new dangers are added to any attempt at the invasion of Egypt from that direction.

(2) Direct communication by land is restored from the South Atlantic to the Red Sea and the Mediterranean—a French-British "land bridge" secure from enemy molestation.

This emergence of the authentic France in the heart of Africa is a heartening thing, and it may be of very great consequence in a seat of war second only in importance to the British Isles themselves.—Ottawa Journal.

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

AT THE CROSS

Once, during the war, in the Caucasus Mountains, a Cossack officer told me what the cross meant to him. The Queen of Rumania showed me her collection of old crosses, and talked about the meaning of the cross. On Armenian and Assyrian faces and hands I saw the cross tatooed, that there might be no denial of faith in time of persecution. Above doors of humble homes in the Lebanon Mountains the cross is painted.

Ah, who can ever search out the manifold meanings of the cross, the emblem of our faith! Do we contemplate it enough?

In the cross are symbolized pardon and power and purity and peace, and every form of overmastering love. On Calvary burst forth the spring of good will that is yet to refresh the thirsty world.

Before the cross of Jesus we take our stand, our Father, to learn the true meaning of life and of love and of Thyself. Amen.

Call to Service

Editor, Bulletin: Facing the hardships that the lack of storage space for this year's wheat crop has brought them, Reeve Arnold Larson and thirty farmers from Great Bend municipality, Saskatchewan, sent out a "Call to Service" to all the ratepayers in their district, pledging themselves to undertake these added sacrifices as "part of our contribution to the unity and strength of Canada". Their statement calls for a mobilization of "all our resources of courage, unselfishness and faith in God" to meet the heavy demands that war is bringing.

The signatories include a number of the original homesteaders of the district, some of the young men just beginning to farm, officials in the Veterans Association, leaders in the co-operative and farm movements and representatives of the various racial and political groups, all working together to "do their bit" on the home front.

The 'Call to Service" reads:

'For all of us in Canada and in the Empire these are days of testing. We need to mobilize all our resources of courage, unselfishness and faith in God. There will be heavy demands, not only on men and materials, but on these resources of the spirit as well.

One of the results of the present struggle is the serious situation which has arisen in the handling of our wheat crop. The government has given a plan to help us and here is an immediate place where we can put these essential spiritual qualities to work. There are practical things we can do:

1. We can be honest about the acreage we have in wheat. We can refuse to try to wangle anything extra for ourselves. Every time we cheat, our country and our neighbors suffer.

2. We can help one another with the economical storage of grain on the farm. We need to be wise in our spending.

3. We can adequately protect our grain from livestock, and our livestock from grain. On our thoroughness will depend the community's welfare.

4. We can accept cheerfully the necessary restrictions. Cheerfulness is just as contagious as grumbling, and much more helpful.

This spirit of moral rearmament, which is widespread in our district, is essential in this emergency. We, the undersigned, pledge ourselves to carry out this program as part of our contribution to the unity and strength of Canada."

"This message is an evidence of the new spirit which is growing in our district," said W. O. Wake, one of the farmers who sponsored the statement. "Some of us have been trying to follow God's direction for our farms and community ever since the work of Moral Re-Armament began here. We are finding that there are a lot of things we thought are pretty hopeless that can be changed when we learn real teamwork, and everybod can have a part in fighting the selfish materialistic spirit that weakens and divides the country. The "Call to Service" is only one step in the program we are working on to build the kind of community life in the west that can be the pattern for the country. Any district can do it, if a few are ready to begin."

Horseflesh to Eat, Trek Through Jungle Is Boy's Experience

BO'NESS, West Lothian, Scotland, Sept. 6.—Internment at Dakar with horse flesh for food and a trek through the African jungle suffering from hunger and thirst were among the adventures of 15-year-old Ronald McFarlane, cabin boy aboard a British freighter.

Ronald, for whom the excitement began at Gibraltar April 22 when his captain was instructed to proceed to Dakar, has just returned home.

His freighter arrived at the French West African port just before the capitulation of France. The ship was taken over by the French who hauled down the British flag and hoisted the tricolor. The British sailors, Ronald included, were marched off to an internment camp.

They were housed in seven huts and fed horse flesh, indifferently cooked, but were so hungry they were glad to eat it.

After two week's confinement the seamen, 125 in all, were freed and by road and rail passed through the jungle, suffering hunger and thirst. Eventually they reached Freetown and Sierra Leone and then returned to England aboard a British ship.

HOUSE TAKES VOTE TO TEST DRAFT LAW

U.S. Representatives Vote For 60-Day Trial Voluntary Enlistment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Tentatively, the House of Representatives last night overrode the managers of the peace-time draft bill and voted 185 to 155 to give the voluntary enlistment system a 60-day trial before conscripting men for the United States army.

It adopted an amendment, offered by Representative Hamilton Fish, New York Republican, under which the draft would not become effective if 400,000 or more recruits present themselves within that period. If a lesser number should apply, enough men would be drafted to bring the total to 400,000, the number of new recruits which the war department wants by the end of the year.

A similar amendment was rejected by the Senate, 41 to 43, before it passed the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory training bill.

Fish and other supporters of the proposal argued that it would "in no way hinder or delay" the national defence program, since war department plans contemplated the induction of no conscripts before Nov. 8 anyway.

The House proceeded to amendments to the pending conscription bill after giving its final approval to the biggest defence appropriation bill of all, a compromise measure carrying almost $5,250,000,000 for supplies to equip an army of 2,000,000, and to begin the construction of a two-ocean navy. The bill requires similar final Senate approval before it goes to the White House.

Application Of The Peace River Air Company Refused

OTTAWA, Sept. 6 — A judgment handed down recently by the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada refused the application of the Peace River Airways Limited for a license to transport by aircraft, passengers and goods between Peace River or McLennan, Alta., and Yellowknife, N.W.T.

A similar application by the company had been refused by the board Dec. 7, 1939.

TRAINEES WILL BE PROVIDED WITH FULL KIT

Complete Military Equipment For Draftees Entering Camps

By KEN CLARK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 6—Being a combination sergeant-major and uncle to 30,000 young Canadian civilians who will go to camp about Oct. 9 for military training is no bed of roses, it is admitted at defence department headquarters here. But, says a department spokesman, it is a profoundly interesting and significant job.

About Oct. 9 these men, single and 21 years old, or childless widowers of that age, will be launched on a compulsory 30-day period of training.

Arriving at camp a man will be given a second medical examination to make sure that his first has been fair to himself and others and that no contagious diseases are brought in among his fellows. Those found unfit will be given transportation home with provision for meals en route.

COMPLETE DRESS

Those who pass the examination will get their kit, the regular outfit of the Non-Permanent Active Militia. Underwear, socks and boots will be new; battle dress, great coats and caps will be new for the first 30,000 called for training.

A man keeps his boots and under-clothes when he leaves the camp, but there is a regulation about hanging on to the boots in case he is called up again. Between each camp period of 30 days all top clothing will be cleaned, sterilized and pressed so it will be as good as new for the second outfit.

BADGES ISSUED

Issued with the kit will be the badges of the N.P.A.M. unit with which the camper becomes associated. This association will depend, in the case of those from rural districts, upon what unit of the N. P. A. M. operates in his part of the woods. City men will be divided equitably among the units of their cities. But the department emphasizes that any man may transfer from one outfit to another later on.

There will be probably 25 men in each hutment (a kind of apartment house hut) with a non-commissioned officer. The officer will have 24-hour oversight over his detail. He will live with the boys, mess with them. The civilian clothes will be in a box under each man's bed, a real bed.

After that comes enrolment and at the end of the period of training enrolment documents will be stamped and filed. Four out of a hundred of them will have a notation that they have been made lance-corporal.

SOUND START

"You can't make a recruit in 30 days," the spokesman said, "but you can give him a sound start. You can give him an introduction to military life so that he won't forget the basic factors in training. And the training will be common to all three branches of the services, navy, army and air, so that afterwards if he wants to join any of them he will have something to begin with."

A vital point in operation of the plan is the kind of officer material selected for the permanent staffs of the camps. For officers commanding, older men have been preferred, those between 40 and 45. It was felt that these men would have a more mature attitude than their juniors.

Other considerations have entered into the selection of subalterns. "We don't want young officers who would stand about slapping their legs with their sticks," the spokesman said. "We want the kind of man who, if he sees that his platoon is not doing a good job of digging or the non-com is slack, will take off his tunic and pitch in for a bit."

WESTERN GRAIN MAY MOVE EAST FOR LIVESTOCK

OTTAWA, Sept. 6—Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture left for Toronto last night and hopes to have an opportunity tomorrow of discussing with Premier Hepburn the latter's proposal that western grain be made available for livestock growers in Ontario.

"The more grain we can move to Ontario farms, the more space we shall have in the elevators to receive the new crop," said the minister.

The Ontario premier yesterday said if western grain was not available many livestock owners would be forced to slaughter their animals before they were ready for the market. They have been unable to harvest all their feed crops because of labor shortage.

Red Cross Of U. S. Co-operates With Britain, Canada

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—The American Red Cross is concentrating a "very real effort" in England, co-operating with the British Red Cross, Mrs. August Belmont, vice-president of the American organization, told members of the central council of the Canadian Red Cross at a luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition Thursday.

Mrs. Belmont said she carried a message from President Norman Davis of the American organization who asked her "to tell the Canadian Red Cross that if there is anything they would like from us we will do our utmost to give it."

Edmonton Pair Pledge Vows In Calgary

Calgary home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Mitchell, was the scene of a wedding claiming interest here and at the Pacific coast one day recently when Margaret Jean Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa J. Rogers of Edmonton, became the bride of William Harrison Delf of Edmonton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Delf of Victoria.

Performed by Rev. Dr. Hollingsworth, the marriage took place before a floral background of pastel toned gladioli. Mrs. Delbert McFarland, aunt of the bride, played the wedding march; Mr. Delbert McFarland sang "O Promise Me," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bouffant styled frock in pastel blue net, fashioned toe-length. Jacket of her frock was fitted, with long sleeves and deep peplum, while a sash of mauve velvet ribbon provided a pretty color accent. Her hat was of mauve and blue flowers and she carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses.

Attending her sister as bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Rogers wore a graceful frock in pink floral net, fashioned basque style. She carried a nosegay of deep red roses.

Mr. John Delf of Calgary supported his brother as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Rogers wore a dove blue dress, redingote style, with corsage of red roses. Mrs. Delf, mother of the bridegroom, was smart in pearl grey with navy hat, trimmed in grey and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Mitchell chose a becoming gown in soft grey tones with wine roses in her corsage.

Tiered wedding cake and pink tapers provided decorations on the bride's table and a toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Arthur Mitchell. Toast to the bridegroom's parents, who were marking the thirty-third anniversary of their wedding, was proposed by Mr. McKenzie, an olden time friend.

Prior to taking up residence in Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Delf will honeymoon in the mountains. To travel, the bride wore a navy sheer frock, with navy top coat and matching accessories.

As in a vacation, planning ahead is very important in bridge. You will get a lot more fun out of the game if you use just a little vision.

Mrs. Martha L. Murphy of Jackson, Miss., playing in the Independence Day tournament, certainly came out with the correct answer on today's hand.

Opening—♠ 3. 6

When East opened the three of spades, declarer knew immediately that it was a singleton. She won the trick with the king and cashed the ace and king of hearts. How could she get back to pick up the trumps without letting East get a ruff in?

East was marked with a singleton spade and four hearts. West had overcalled in clubs, therefore East might easily have a 4-4-4-1 distribution. This would give West a singleton diamond, and bearing in mind West's overcall, Mrs. Murphy reasoned that the singleton might easily be the king.

She therefore cashed the ace, queen and jack of diamonds and ruffed the fourth diamond in her own hand, picked up the trumps, and not only made her contract of six-odd but scored an overtrick.

500 Toronto Women Members Of Training Force In East City

TORONTO, Sept. 6 — Mrs. Winnifred Richards, who has the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian Women's Service Force, said this week 500 Toronto women are under military training in the force.

She said the organization had been recognized by the federal government and that approval to recruit an army of 1,000 women for home defence, and replacement, if required, of men enlisting for active service, had been granted.

The force was organized five weeks ago. Drills are held in city parks and school grounds and almost every type of occupation is represented in the ranks.

Mrs. Richards served during the First Great War as a delegate member of the Canadian Imperial Women's Veterans Corps.

FISH IS GOOD HOT WEATHER FOOD

Summer is a good time to include fish dishes in your menus frequently. Here is a dinner menu for a warm summer day: Jellied consomme, broiled salmon filets with lemon and butter, small boiled new potatoes, buttered fresh peas, cucumber salad, French dressing, assorted rolls, sponge squares with huckleberry sauce, iced tea.

MAJORING IN FALL FASHIONS ON THE CAMPUS

Majoring in fall fashions on the campus this year are sweaters and skirts—perennial favorites of the average college girl. She will wear a bright necklace with them as of yore. Typical of her choice is the ensemble above, gay Scotch plaid skirt which is pleated all around and long-sleeved classic sweater in rosy beige.

Your Baby And Mine

If we could get over the idea that babies stay awake in order to play, or to annoy us or because they don't like to sleep, we would recognize that almost without exception babies sleep well when their tummies are comfortably full.

Mrs. M. K. says she can hardly get her work done because of the wakefulness of her month-old daughter. "She weighed 8½ lbs. at birth and now weighs 10½ pounds. Almost all of this was gained the first three weeks, the last week she only gained four ounces.

"She goes to sleep at 11 or 12 p.m. and then wakes again at 5 a.m. to be nursed. She's awake again at 8 or 9 a.m., and after her noon meal she sleeps only five minutes at a time and is awake and crying to be nursed. She wants to eat all the time.

"When she nurses, she gets the hiccoughs and then will vomit a little. She can't seem to be satisfied. She would drink one or two ounces of water if I would give it to her. Once she drank 3½ ounces of cow's milk after a nursing. At times I nursed her at four-hour intervals so she wouldn't be too full, but she was crabby, anyway."

The baby is a fine weight, but the four ounce gain would seem to indicate that this last week, at least, her food had been less than satisfying—and her actions would seem to bolster that opinion.

FOLLOW REGULARLY

If she is going to be fed on the three-hour schedule, follow that interval regularly. The night feedings should not exceed two, usually at ten p.m. and at two a.m. If she could be fed only four times daily at 6-10-2-6 and given a complementary feeding right after each nursing I imagine she would be far better contented than at present. She should have all the water she wants between meals.

When you feed this way, you will find that when baby gets enough by breast she will be indifferent to the bottle, and its contents should not be forced upon her. But when the breast feeding is inadequate, then the complementary bottle will be accepted eagerly. But the breast and bottle feedings should follow each other at the same feeding. Don't give one at one feeding and the other at the next.

When the baby is slightly older, you may find that your breast supply will be sufficient to nourish her without supplementary feedings. But during the first month or so complementary bottles can be extremely useful.

My leaflets on "The Nursing Mother," and "Sweet Milk Formulas," will furnish you general information on how to increase the breast supply and on complementary feedings. To get either or both of these leaflets send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, of the Your Baby and Mine department, in care of this newspaper.

> Myrtle Meyer Eldred will answer your questions about diet, general care and management of children if you will send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine Department in care of this newspaper.

Get Rid of Unwanted Pounds

Yes, it's the very same fall dress you're trying on yourself, Mrs. Hefty. But how differently it looks on a size 16 figure.

Only the slim are smart these days, so start now to reduce. On a sensible low-calory diet you can lose 10 pounds in 5 weeks.

Each one of those excess pounds you now carry around represents about 4,000 calories of heavy food which your system didn't require. Lunches like this were the culprits —1 cup beef hash on toast (450 calories, 1 cup apple tapioca (200).

For a while take fewer calories than you need and you'll soon melt the pounds. Choose such lunches as a beef sandwich (225 calories), and apple snow (125 a cup).

A calory chart can tell you what foods to avoid. In 3 tablespoons of French dressing there are 200 calories. Two tablespoons of jelly on your bread add 120 and two tablespoons of English walnuts on a dessert add 200.

But, never fear, your well-planned reducing diet has plenty of delicious foods. Our 32-page booklet gives tasty, healthful low-calory menus for 14 days, has recipes for low-calory desserts. Includes liquid diet to start reducing. Tells how to gain, too.

Philadelphia Teacher Flying Instructor—Knew Late Amelia Earhart

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—Out near the northeast border of Philadelphia, beyond its factories and office buildings, a trim young brown-haired "schoolmarm" is teaching men to fly. Her "primer" is a little lemon-yellow monoplane and her 22 pupils range from 'teen boys to middle-aged businessmen.

She is Helen Richey, one of the United States' most experienced pilots. Employed by the Northeastern Airport here, Miss Richey is the 28-year-old daughter of a former superintendent of schools in McKeesport, Pa., and had "my mind made up to be a flier before I even learned how" in Pittsburgh nine years ago.

CO-PILOT

Miss Richey was co-pilot for the late Amelia Earhart in the Bendix Air Races of September, 1936. They flew the same plane which Miss Earhart used on her ill-fated attempt to circle the globe.

With the late Frances Marsalis, Miss Richey set a womans endurance record above Miami, Fla., seven years ago. She has never cracked up a plane or been in a crash.

Minute Make-Ups

Hair-dos have taken a definitely different contour this season due to pompadour decorations. One of the newest treatments is the jeweled pompadour ensemble, earrings and pompadour combs. If you haven't experimented with a pompadour, take your brush in hand and begin training your hair to stand high from your forehead. The combs may be slipped in the hair at becoming angles at the side or at the top. If your hair is fine and not very thick be sure that you select light combs which will not fall out easily. Those who have thick, heavy hair may use the more elaborate bejeweled styles. The pompadour, because it may be combed in various styles, is adaptable to round, square or even long faces. When you brush your hair back, remember to wear earrings.

Blond persons are more susceptible to skin disease than brunets, according to some dermatologists.

Celebrating their silver wedding anniversaries jointly, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hellickson and Mr. and Mrs. A. TRAPUNTO QUILTING

Trapunto quilting is one of those professional looking touches that even the beginner can accomplish on her own sewing machine quite easily. Decorators like it on draperies, cushions, bedspreads, dressing table skirts, even slipcovers. It makes the plainest negligee luxurious, gives distinction to summer evening wraps and adds personality to fabric handbags. The outline of the pattern you wish to follow should be stamped or traced on a piece of muslin. This is carefully pinned and basted to the wrong side of your fabric, stamp side up. The design is then outlined with two rows of machine stitching about one-fourth inch apart. Then with a bodkin or long upholstery needle, strands of wool are run through the casing between the muslin and outside fabric to form the quilted design. To turn the corners or start a new design, the bodkin may be brought out of the muslin and inserted again, wherever desired. If parts of the pattern are heavier, cotton is worked into the space between muslin and fabric.

JASPER JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

JASPER, Sept. 6—One very fine example of the warm friendship for Canada-at-War, that our friends across the border have shown, is the quantities of knitted comforts given to the Jasper Red Cross branch this summer. Dozens of pairs of knitted sox, shawls for convalescents, warm helmets and scarves among needed articles have been prepared by holiday visitors from the States.

One little girl from Maine, ill in the local hospital, spent time knitting for Canadian soldiers, and several have promised to still continue their friendly help all during the coming winter. All this in addition to generous money donations.

The Jasper Soldier Fund sponsored a dance in Green Gables on Labor Day in aid of their fund for comforts for Jasper soldiers.

Last Saturday the Jasper assembly of the Canadian Daughters' League held a successful tag day in aid of their national fund for home defense.

A number of social affairs were given in honor of Mrs. R. D. Britton and Miss Dorothy Britton who leave this week for Calgary where Mr. Britton was recently transferred.

The Jasper veterans and members of the B.E.S.L. held their annual decoration service in the Jasper cemetery on Sunday. As is their annual custom, the graves of former comrades were decorated with flowers and evergreens and a solemn service of remembrance was conducted by Rev. N. D. McInnes of the Jasper United church. Twenty-four graves were decorated with a profusion of flowers from Jasper gardens and Jasper Park Lodge.

Jasper children trooped off to begin another school year on Tuesday and a number of new teachers have taken positions in the Jasper school. Mr. Walter Scott of Ft. Saskatchewan will be school principal and high school teacher, with Miss Hazel Matheson as his assistant. G. I. Hughes will take grade 9 and manual training; Fred Brimacomb of Vermilion, grade 7; Miss Dorothy Allison, Edmonton, grade 8, and Miss Dorothy Brooks, Edmonton, will take grade one. Household economics will be taught by Miss Allison and physical training by Miss Hayhurst and Miss Brooks. Several guest children from England will be among the children attending on opening day.

Britain's Uniformed Women Are Allowed Frills, Fancies When They Go On Leave

LONDON, Sept. 6—British women in uniform are allowed now to slip into feminine frills and fancies when they go on leave. When the war started, girls of the Auxiliary Territorial Service, the Women's Auxiliary Air Force and the Women's Royal Naval Service were faced with different rulings of commanding officers as they moved from one duty station to another. Some women were obliged to wear their uniforms all the time and others enjoyed the luxury of clinging frocks and sheer stockings when off duty.

Now regulations have been introduced to permit the temporary doffing of uniforms and it is the Navy which shows the readiest understanding of a woman's liking for her own dainty dresses.

The A. T. S. and W.A.A.F. ruling is that members must be in uniform on all occasions except when on leave of 24 hours or more. The Wrens must wear uniforms to and from duty, on duty, within a naval or marine establishment, even when not on duty, and on all official and semi-official occasions.

Thus the Wrens have many opportunities for changing into more charming costume. At home or even on short leave they may get out of uniform if they like, and they are encouraged to do so.

Uniforms need not be worn by officers and ratings for recreation. For naval or marine dances, uniforms must be worn unless special permission has been obtained to wear dance frocks.

Silver Wedding Day Occasions Happy Party

TO mark the silver anniversary of their wedding day, Mr. and Mrs. S. Robinson entertained a number of friends at dinner in the Royal George hotel one evening recently. Covers were laid for 20 guests. Gladioli and sweet peas made an attractive floral centrepiece on the table.

Married 25 years ago at Knox church manse in Edmonton by Rev. McGoogan, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson have lived continuously in the city. Their children, William and Doreen Robinson, were present for the anniversary occasion while their eldest son, Kenneth, was absent in Toronto.

Mr. Howard Dean acted as master of ceremonies at the dinner and proposed a toast to the honored guests. They were made the recipients of an electrical gift at the affair.

Later in the evening, friends called at their home at 10637 126 street, to extend congratulations and best wishes. Music was enjoyed and a buffet supper served. A wedding cake centred the table which was graced with carnations and other summer flowers. Electrical gifts from their family and also the guests, were presented to them.

Duchess Of Windsor Has Own Troubles Says Ruth Millet

THE Duchess has her troubles. It may look to you as if the Duchess of Windsor has life pretty easy. She is out of war's danger, safe and snug on a lovely island on which her husband is Head Man. But life for the Duchess isn't quite as easy as you may think. So says Ruth Millet, noted columnist.

S.O.S. FOR HAIRDRESSER

She got to the Bahamas, only to find that there wasn't a soul on the islands who could do her hair properly. If such a situation would be depressing to Mrs. Jones, who has her hair done once a week, it is twenty-one times as depressing to the Duchess. For she has hers done three times a day.

And then, on top of all the trouble of having to send for a New York hairdresser to fly down and stand by with a comb and brush, the Duchess found that she would have to "do over" Government House, which is her new home.

So, while the alterations are going on, the Duke and his Duchess are having to live in what is described as a bungalow. Fancy that—a bungalow. But it does have a nice view. And the garden isn't bad—and the antiques really are superb.

And as if things weren't difficult enough for the Duchess—her French chef has not yet arrived. And, of course, she can do no real entertaining until he comes. Of course, even with all her troubles, the Duchess is a little better off than she might be if fate had not kept her from being the Queen of England.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN QUEEN

If she were in England—the Queen's place in time of trouble—she would not be getting her beauty sleep these nights. The British people aren't. But then she probably hasn't had time to think much about the bombs falling on England, she has had her own troubles.

Two chancels, one above the other, are contained in a church at Compton, Surrey, England.

FOR LATE SUMMER VACATION

All set for relaxation under summer skies is screen star Ann Rutherford, garbed in a chic, but essentially comfortable, late summer play costume. It includes pale blue denim slacks, a printed cotton shirt and a denim jacket, faced with print to match the shirt.

TO BE MARRIED IN LATE SEPTEMBER

MISS ALIX ROBERTSON MR. FREDERICK G. DAY

Friends in university, social and business circles share interest in the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. K. Robertson of Edmonton which tells of the engagement of their youngest daughter, Alix Roberta Robertson, to Mr. Frederick George Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Day, also of this city. The marriage will take place in late September. Canadians Are Much In Demand At New London Marriage Bureau

LONDON, Sept. 6—Beneath the cage of a couple of lovebirds in an office overlooking fashionable Bond street, two English girls have been working on a never-finished jigsaw puzzle for 18 months—helping people find suitable husbands and wives.

But they have their troubles now that the Canadian soldiers are here. The number of English girls wanting Canadian husbands is twice the number of Canadians seeking a spouse. The war, naturally, has given the bureau its heaviest business. Six Canadian soldiers who corresponded with English girls after answering the bureau advertisements before coming to England have since married them.

"We can't get enough Canadians," lamented blonde Heather Jenner who started the marriage bureau with petite, brunette Mary Oliver. "The English girls are keen on them. We have 200 Canadians who want wives and twice that many women who want Canadian husbands."

Among the assets of Canadians, Miss Jenner and Miss Oliver placed the Canadian accent high. Also the prospect of the wide-open life in the Empire appeals to English girls. Next to Canadians, they prefer Australians.

The Canadian applicants who consult the bureau after reading its advertisements at various places here, favor country girls. They want their women intelligent but not too sophisticated.

NO SET TIME

There is no set time between meeting and engagement but Miss Oliver said the bureau discourages rush war weddings. Often after a couple have been keeping company for three weeks or so they telephone and say the middle aisle is not far away.

The bureau's civilian business still thrives. Miss Oliver thought the blackout had a lot to do with it and mentioned one applicant telling her how lonely he got these dark nights. In addition, they are asked to find wives for a considerable number of English business men.

"In fact," said Miss Oliver, "we have men from peers to chimney sweeps and the girls include farmers' daughters, debutantes, and mannequins."

Feeling that just helping applicants find partners is not enough the girls offer a bonus of £50 if a baby is born in the first year of marriage to the wife of one of their clients providing he is in the fighting services.

What—No Ransom?

PESHAWAR, India.—Hostile tribesmen kidnapped the postmaster of Dattakhel, held him for some weeks, then released him, the reports saying, "it is understood the government did not pay any ransom."

Club Members Are Honored At Luncheon

President of the Association, Mrs. W. Ward, Jr., expressed the regret felt by the association at the departure of Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Mulvey both of whom have been active members for many years. A presentation was made by Mrs. Ward to the former members. Presentations were also made on behalf of the Westway Club, by Mrs. J. Ritchie, and to the Mulvey children by Mrs. H. A. Nimmo, on behalf of the junior members of the association.

Among those present were Mrs. Doria Henderson, managing deputy for Alberta; Mrs. W. Ward, Jr., president; Mrs. H. A. Nimmo, Mrs. G. F. Baldwin, Mrs. R. Hargreaves, Mrs. W. R. Foulds, Mrs. James East, Mrs. D. L. Shercliffe, Mrs. E. M. Finlayson, Mrs. V. Misener, Mrs. J. Ritchie, Mrs. T. Hunter, Mrs. R. T. McArthur, Mrs. O. Garner, Mrs. H. J. Marks, Mrs. A. W. Searle and Miss K. Quilley.

British Beauty Salons Do "Business As Usual" During the War; Use of Cosmetics on Increase

By MARIAN YOUNG

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Not even air raid sirens, falling bombs and blackouts can make modern woman forget to put on her lipstick, powder her nose and curl her hair.

The sale of cosmetics in Europe has increased, rather than decreased, since the beginning of the war.

DEMAND IS AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

In England, reports William T. Carlson, sales manager for Elizabeth Arden, one of the largest manufacturers of beauty preparations here and abroad, sales are nearly eight per cent. ahead of last year.

"The demand for cosmetics has not fallen off even in the conquered countries of Denmark and Norway," says Mr. Carlson. "Our Paris establishment has re-opened. Sales are up rather than down in Italy. In London, we have had to place limitations per customer on some of our items.

"Why, British women actually are hoarding beauty preparations. The day Mr. Chamberlain announced that the war probably would continue for at least three years, one of our best customers bought $800 worth of creams and lotions."

Reports from London say that women in uniform make up as carefully as ever they did before the war.

Recent arrivals from London to the New York office of Elizabeth Arden report that women in uniform make up as carefully as ever they did before the war. They have their hair done often. They often spend all of their half-day-off-per-week in a salon "getting the works," from pedicures to hair-do's.

They even go so far as to consider colors important. They like brownish-red rouge and lipstick with standard uniform colors. They carry conveniently small, flat makeup kits, complete with foundation and cleansing creams as well as lipstick, powder and such, in the pockets of their uniforms.

PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECT IS GOOD

British women who are not in uniform continue to patronize their favorite hairdressers, exercise and facial salons. They explain this seeming incongruity by pointing out that things are bad enough without having the women in the scene sad-faced, unmade-up and badly groomed.

Furthermore, typical English wives feel it important to look their best for husbands on leave for a day or two, and for children who, having been evacuated from congested areas, see their mothers only now and then.

Dorothy Dix Says:

At what age is a woman most attractive to men? This question was brought up in the recent trial for murder of a young man who had killed the husband of the woman with whom he was in love, and in which the lawyer for the defense in pleading for clemency for the boy said: "When this affair began, this lad was only 22, while the woman was much older and experienced. History shows that a man of 22 is but clay in the hands of a woman in her thirties." This pronouncement will come with a shock to all the sweet-and-twenties who think that youth is the essence of a woman's charm.

There are many reasons why men should fall before a woman of 30 like ripe wheat before the sickle. To begin she is then generally at the height of her beauty. She is the full blown rose, not the immature bud, and she has learned how to dress and how to play up her attractions. Her artifices have become art. More important still, she has developed a technique in handling men. The young girl is a bungling amateur whose methods are raw. She treats men with brutal frankness and tramples ruthlessly over their vanities. She is full of egotism herself, and expects men to devote their time and money to entertaining and amusing her.

But the woman in her 30's turns the spotlight upon the man and sings a song of praise in his honor about how big and strong and clever he is.

The woman in her 30's is fascinating to all men, but she is particularly lethal to boys, because she is more sophisticated than the girls of their own age, and it flatters them to death to think that they are able to charm a woman of the world.

In addition, she is more amusing and entertaining and easier to get along with than the young girl. Few debutantes have any conversation. They merely exclaim and shriek and giggle. And when they have exhausted their supply of adjectives, and there is nothing to have hysterics over, they are dumb.

The real reason why widows can marry all around young girls is because they are so often women in their 30's; women who are at their best physically and mentally; women who know life and men.

And that is why so many women who know their birthdays never get over 33. Why, I know women who have been 33 for the last 20 years.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Venus would have had a trimmer figure for a daily dozen—not that there was anything wrong with the divinity's proportions! But she looked soft, even in stone.

It takes a bit of exercise to give a gal that well-knit, supple look. The active figure is not only more attractive but healthier—even the medical profession says so. Unless you get enough exercise, the circulation slows up, the muscles go soft, and the figure is marred by hollows or fat pads.

The beautiful body is the active body and lithe Jane Wyman, screen lovely, knows there's no easy road to figure perfection. Her daily dozen to keep trim consists of a dance routine.

Unfortunately, the popular notion that exercise will reduce in spots is not exactly true. For instance, when you swing your legs to slim your hips, there is no guarantee that the extra calories used will come right off the hips! It doesn't work quite that directly. Nor does it operate like a sculptor's chisel to shift weight from one portion of the figure to a more desirable site.

Nevertheless, exercise appears to do just that. If your chest and shoulders are scrawny, the contours can be improved by developing the muscle tissue. And if the waist is too well padded, you can wring off some of the surplus. And rolling the hips smack against the floor will definitely smooth the contours. But all this magic reapportioning is achieved through stimulus to muscle tone, and the consequent tightening or developing of the musculature. This also makes for a better functioning and healthier body.

The thin girl on a gaining program should exercise to develop her figure. The fat girl on a low calorie diet should exercise to tone down her curves.

Moderate exercise is a health as well as beauty measure and is only contraindicated in cases of high blood pressure and where excessive weight has placed a strain on the heart. It is sometimes advisable for part of the weight to be dieted off before exercise is undertaken. With any such complication, the entire program should be under the supervision of a doctor.

MORE EFFECTIVE

Where the figure is concerned, specific exercise is far more effective than general. Specifically, the exercises which help to fill out the chest and straighten the shoulders are those which use the arms. The movements which slim the waist are stretching, twisting and bending. Those which flatten the tummy contract or retract the abdominal wall. And to slim the hips, rolling, leg swinging and walking up-grade are prescribed.

Tomorrow's article tells you how to get the most out of your exercise.

Your Dietitian,
IDA JEAN KAIN

A thoughtful gift for the college girl would be one of the new fitted manicure cases, containing all preparations and supplies she will need to keep her nails well groomed. They come nicely packed into a plaid case.

British Women Are Demanding Representation in Cabinet

LONDON, Sept. 6—British women are renewing a demand for representation in the cabinet. The demand is being made, they say, not from a desire to govern the country but in order that they may gain authority to utilize woman power in the war effort.

They have formed the woman-power committee which includes women members of parliament but they claim the committee, without government representation, is powerless to carry out their program.

For weeks, committee members have been seeking a hand from the different ministers but Chairman Irene Ward, M.P., said: "There is no need to tell you we have not had much success; they all pass it on to the next fellow. It doesn't come within their department."

TO PRIME MINISTER

"Then we must go to the prime minister himself," declared Lady Nancy Astor, at a meeting of representatives of the numerous women's unions and organizations.

The meeting, crowded into a pink-walled attic hall, cheered Lady Astor as she declared: "The three fighting services are far ahead of the government in realizing the value of women's work, and we must go to the prime minister himself, if need be, to demand that the services of women shall be used."

"I think there is a sub-conscious Hitlerism in the hearts of the men," she continued, tapping her black-gloved hand on the table. "They are prejudiced against able women, though they don't seem to mind the stupid ones and give them the jobs. But women don't want sham work. They want real work!"

Dr. Edith Summerskill, M.P., told how anxious all British women were to take part in the war effort "because if we lose this war we shall lose all our women's rights, our freedom; and we women do not think of freedom as an abstract conception."

DEMANDS

All speakers stressed the fact that every representative present was united in the present demands:

1. Right to work at any job where woman proved her capability.
2. Rate for the job irrespective of sex.
3. Promotion according to ability.
4. Opportunity to train and equip herself for all branches of industry where workers are needed and women suitable.

Apparently to quiet the fears of the only male at the meeting, Dr. Summerskill smiled and added kindly: "Let us be quite clear in the fact that we are not man-haters."

Debunker

"PINKS" ARE NOT SO-NAMED FOR THEIR COLOR

It is generally supposed that the carnation-like flowers called "pinks" received that name because of their color. But the truth is that this had nothing to do with the name, which was taken from the verb "to pink"—meaning to stick or prick with something sharp. This name referred to the sharp, jagged edge of the petals which scratched people when picking the flowers. The term is commonly used by seamstresses who pink cloth, and by men in duels who pink their opponents.

COTTON FOR LOUNGING

Cotton is cool for summer lounging wear. A Fifth Avenue shop features a bare midriff model of unwrinkable cotton in a bold horizontal stripe. The skirt is very full; the short, rather tight bodice with short sleeves ties with three separate bows down the front. Very nice for slim figures.

Sunday Dinner Can Be A Little More Elaborate

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Sunday dinner for all the family should have a gala touch even though the weekly food allowance is moderate. Children expect it and the man of the house believes it is his right. A festive dessert with eye-appeal, distinctive flavor and rich consistency can be included in the economy budget but the ingredients must come out of the weekly allowance of eggs, butter, flour and sweetening recommended for 7 days according to the income level.

In other words, though Sunday dinner is the big meal of the week and is customarily a bit more elaborate, it must be considered as a part of the weekly food allowance and be so planned that it supplies all the nutritional needs of both young and adolescent children as well as the appetite preferences of the adults of the family.

The dessert recipes given below are pleasant and different even though they do belong in the category of nursery desserts, desserts which children can eat with dietetic correctness. Furthermore, each contributes materially to the total of nutrients in the menu and is not to be regarded as just something extra.

SPICED SQUASH CUSTARD

One and one-half cups mashed squash, 1½ cups milk, scalded, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, ½ to 2-3 cups brown sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ginger, nutmeg, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, salt to taste.

Combine the squash with the eggs, sugar and seasonings. Melt the butter in the milk and add to the squash mixture. Strain into a pudding pan, top with a grating of nutmeg, set in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) ½ hour or until set. Serve with whipped or plain cream.

ORANGE SOUFFLE WITH FOAMY SAUCE

Three eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, juice and rind of 1 orange, ¾ cup sugar.

Separate eggs. Beat yolks until thick and lemon-colored, adding sugar gradually. Add orange juice and rind. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Fold into yolk mixture. Pour into casserole. Set in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) for about 55 minutes. Serve immediately with the following sauce:

FOAMY SAUCE

Three-fourth cup confectioners' sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup cream, whipped, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Cream sugar, egg and whipped cream together. Add orange rind. Pour over hot souffle.

Sunday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced peaches, dry cereal, top milk, brown rice griddle cakes, maple syrup, crisp bacon, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Stewed chicken with baking powder biscuit, sweet potatoes, green beans, romaine salad, orange souffle with foamy sauce, coffee, milk.

POPULAR CITY TEACHER NOW JOINS ARMY

Fred J. Bendle, Of McCauley School, Leaves Friday As Gunner

One of the city's well-known dramatic artists and school teachers, Fred J. Bendle, 9922 111 street, leaves Friday for service as a gunner with the 1st Canadian Survey Regiment naw being mobilized in eastern Canada for overseas duty. Mr. Bendle had started his teaching duties at McCauley Intermediate school this week when the call came for him to report for service with the unit.

Starting on the city's school staff in 1935, Mr. Bendle has taught at Eastwood and for the past two years has been at McCauley school. Previous to teaching here, he was at Belmont and Winterburn schools, and for a period taught in a Southampton, Eng., school on a teacher-exchange plan.

SOCIAL GIVEN

A farewell social was given by the McCauley staff Thursday evening in Mr. Bendle's honor in the ladies' room of the school. Principal J. H. Powell expressed the staff's best wishes to Mr. Bendle and then presented him with a military wrist watch as a token of the esteem in which he was held by students and teachers alike. Mrs. Powell and Miss White poured tea at the function.

As a well-qualified dramatic coach Mr. Bendle has had great success with dramatic classes at McCauley school. He has also been an active member of the Edmonton Little Theatre organization and has taken leading roles in notable successes. During past years Mr. Bendle has been a member of the University Players, featured in drama presentations over the CBC during past winters.

BORN IN SOUTH WALES

Born in South Wales, Mr. Bendle was educated in the Old Country and graduated with teachers' certificates from Caerleon College in 1923. He has taken an active interest in community organizations since coming to Edmonton, being a member of St. Faith's church and for several years a member of the church choir, a member of the Alberta Avenue Curling Club and an instructor in the Workers' Educational Association, as well as belonging to several teachers' groups. During the season of 1926, Mr. Bendle was a member of the Alberta British rugby team which toured the Pacific coast in a series of games.

Mr. Bendle's wife and mother will continue to live in the city.

Wounded Guide Is Travelling By Automobile

Bob Traver of Edmonton, wounded guide who has been travelling on horseback to Entrance for medical treatment will be taken on the last 17-mile leg of his trip by automobile, it was announced Thursday by the radio service of the provincial forestry department.

Traver spent Wednesday night at a cabin 58 miles from Entrance. The car will pick him up at the lower crossing of the Hay river, 17 miles out of Entrance. The guide is accompanied by Ranger Bradshaw of the forestry department who is keeping in touch with the department at Edmonton by means of his portable radio-phone.

Traver suffered a severe thigh wound Tuesday when his revolver accidentally discharged while he was placing it in his holster.

Withdrawal Made In Court Charge On Registration

John Walyshyn, charged with failing to register under national registration, had the charge against him withdrawn by the crown Thursday afternoon after a conference between Magistrate Millar and Crown Prosecutor C. G. Purvis, K.C.

Walyshyn had been discharged from the army on August 30. He told police he had attempted to register at that time but was unable to do so.

In withdrawing the charge the crown pointed out that the act permits discharged soldiers 30 days in which to register.

Accused was advised to immediately register.

FALSE ALARMS ARE RECEIVED IN SHORT TIME

For a short space Thursday evening it appeared as though incendiary bombs were being rained down on Edmonton.

In the short space of nine minutes fire department equipment went racing on three separate calls.

The first call came at 8:41 p.m. from 111 street and 88 avenue. Three minutes later, at 8:44, came number two, this time from 97 avenue and 102 street. The third call came at 8:50, from 77 avenue and 91 street.

All three were false alarms.

MINERS URGE COMPENSATION BOARD SET-UP

Setting up of a three-member workmen's compensation board for this province was urged by a delegation from the executive of the United Mine Workers of America, district 18, when union officials conferred with Premier William Aberhart and cabinet members Wednesday.

The proposed board would be composed of one representative of labor, one from the employers and one member to be appointed by the government. The present board is a one-member body, Dr. Victor Wright holding office. The government reduced the board from three to one member status shortly after taking office in 1935.

The delegation urged also that release required by the board in settling claims for disability should be abandoned. This would give an injured person who could not procure medical evidence to support his claim the opportunity to have his case re-opened.

After being grounded for five days by smoke and fog Mackenzie Air Service planes, piloted by Chief Pilot Bob Randall and Al Brown, and Canadian Airways Limited ships guided by Pilots Alf. Caywood and North Sawle left for the north from the city with full loads of passengers and freight Thursday afternoon.

Returning aboard the Canadian Airways plane from Aklavik piloted by Jack Moar, Matt Berry, general manager of Northern Transportation Co., Ltd., arrived in the city Thursday. He reported that the police are continuing the search for Raoul Bertrand, and that dragging operations on the Bear river are still progressing. Mr. Berry also stated that the waters on the Athabasca river are getting low, and may offer possible difficulties to river traffic. Smoke conditions in the north have hampered river ships to some extent, also, he said.

Passengers in the Mackenzie Air Service "Barkley-Grow", piloted by Chief Pilot Bob Randall, bound for Outpost Island and Yellowknife, were J. C. Gudgel for McMurray; D. Iles for Goldfields; J. C. Byrne manager of Athona Gold Mines, for Outpost Island, as also were G. Shandre, A. Jamieson, R. J. Muir, C. Floden and D. Hutchinson for McMurray.

In the M.A.S. "Fairchild AXM" flown by Al Brown were H. Neal for McMurray; W. L. Traver for Yellowknife; S. J. Casper for Fitzgerald; and A. Maciver for Goldfields.

With the Canadian Airways plane piloted to Edmonton by Jack Moar from Aklavik were Matt Berry, W. R. Wilson, A. D. Scott, H. Anderson, E. Rarnig, F. Bedell, G. Bedell and D. Helton. Most of these passengers had made the trip by river up the Mackenzie to Aklavik and had been held there due to the smoke and fog condition in the north.

INDEPENDENTS ARE AWAITING GRAIN REPORT

Members of the Grain Marketing and Storage Committee, formed by the Independent members of the legislature, met Thursday night to consider the reply received from the provincial government, in answer to their letter which offered co-operation and submitted suggestions in connection with the grain crisis.

In view of the fact that a conference is now taking place in Ottawa on this question, and of the further fact that the Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, and the Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, are taking part in that conference, it was decided to reserve comment upon the position taken by the provincial government until the result of the Ottawa conference becomes known.

CBC Announces Restrictions On Day Of Prayer

"Spot advertising" broadcasts are prohibited on Sunday and commercial advertising will be held to a minimum on September 8, which has been set aside by request of His Majesty as a national day of repentance and prayer, according to a CBC announcement.

Information to this effect was received Friday by Moderator Rev. William Simons and A. B. MacKenzie, clerk of the session, of First Presbyterian church. It was in answer to a recommendation made by the session here this week that "only such broadcasts be allowed as are in harmony with the purposes of the special day of repentance and prayer to seek Divine help in this time of national emergency."

Through The Mill

"Just one little sip over my usual three fingers landed me in this trouble," admitted the good-humored toper who pleaded guilty Friday in police court to being drunk in a public place. Departing from the usual conduct of those pleading guilty to intoxication, accused became quite talkative when asked if he had anything to say before the court passed sentence. So loquacious did he become, in fact, that if it had been any other place but a court of justice, a person could reasonably be excused for suspecting that accused was still a bit under the weather.

"I work hard for my living and I decided to take my vacation. Just one little sip over the usual three fingers," and at this point accused held three digits aloft. The magistrate permitted himself the luxury of a smile, before imposing the usual penalty of $20 and costs on accused.

The young fellow charged with not supporting his wife because he claimed she went on wild parties and came home smelling of liquor, had the charge dismissed. The court warned accused, however, that there had been a lot of lies told at the trial and he had instructed police to investigate the truth or otherwise of all statements made during the non-support hearing, with a view to laying charges of perjury, if such action is warranted.

• • •

A man charged with begging on the city streets will serve four months in jail. Several previous convictions for similar offences were registered against accused.

Rev. Batchelor Leaves Soon For Church In East

At All Saints' Cathedral here for nearly three years, Rev. L. D. Batchelor will leave September 12 for Rothesay, New Brunswick, to be rector of St. Paul's Anglican church in the diocese of Fredericton.

Mr. Batchelor will be conducting his final services in the cathedral here on Sunday before motoring to the Maritimes with his wife and three children. He will have leave of absence from the Edmonton diocese to take the post which has been left open because the rector of St. Paul's is on leave for military service.

He completed his schooling in Australia after moving there from England where he was born at St. Albans, Herefordshire. Coming to Canada in 1918 he worked with the C.P.R. in Calgary for a while. While in attendance at St. John's College, Winnipeg, where he graduated with honors in theology, he was a leading participant in college debates.

Ordained in 1930, Rev. Batchelor has served in Calgary, Westlock and Fort Saskatchewan.

During the last war he served with Australian home defence forces, and at present holds a commission in the 19th Alberta Dragoons.

Low Rail Rate For Harvesters

It was announced Friday by M. W. Robertson, general superintendent of Employment Service of Canada here, that there is a steady and heavy demand for help, particularly from farmers in need of harvest hands.

In addition, the Employment Service has arranged with all railway and bus lines within the province for a 1½-cent per mile rate for men seeking work in the harvest fields.

The rate is available to the provincial and city relief departments.

CANVASS FOR BLIND FUNDS STARTS SOON

Annual drive for funds for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will officially open on Monday, September 16, when a canvass will be made of business and professional men. No door-to-door canvass will be made, it was decided at a conference of Institute officials here Thursday.

Sponsored by the Municipal Chapter of the I.O.D.E., under convenership of Mrs. H. Kinnear, the drive will be for an objective of $6,000 to handle the necessary financing of the institute's work in northern Alberta.

Headquarters for the drive will be open for two weeks in the ground floor of the Agency building, where a display of basket and leather work will be shown.

Residents of Northern Alberta, 282 blind people have been aided by the Institute, with provision of glasses and medical treatment, or other assistance. Of these, 93 are residents of Edmonton.

It is anticipated that the usual hearty co-operation will be given the Institute toward the continuance of its valuable work in the province.

AMENDMENTS TO CITY BYLAW ARE PROPOSED

Power to revoke a building permit where it is found that the structure being erected is in contravention of the city's building bylaw, the zoning bylaw or contrary to the plans and specifications filed with the city in connection with such permit, will be given to the city building inspector if an amendment to the city building bylaw recommended by the bylaws committee is accepted by the city council.

The proposed amendment provides also that any person doing any further work on a building for which the permit has been cancelled or suspended shall be guilty of an offence and subject to penalties provided in the bylaw.

Another amendment will provide for the payment of double fees where work is started on any building or structure, including excavation, before a permit for such work has been obtained.

Cattle Not Being Sacrificed Despite Increased Selling

In spite of a rush to market cattle, officials of the department of agriculture say there is no indication of stock being sacrificed. Rather, the fact that cattle marketing in the Edmonton stockyards are double that of a year ago, results from higher prices and stronger demand.

In other provinces, many farmers are selling livestock at any price, because of the need of cash for harvesting.

In a recent statement, A. W. Burrell, manager of Edmonton Stockyards Ltd., said: "There are a number of reasons for the increased marketing. For one thing, the market is strong and there is a good outlet. Bulk of cattle is in good condition. Then, at this time of the year we get a lot of what is known as "twine" cattle, sold by farmers to finance their harvesting operations. The whole combination of circumstances has resulted in the prevalent increased selling. There is nothing to indicate sacrificing of cattle."

BUILDING TOTAL UP $22,100 ON FRIDAY PERMITS

Edmonton's building permit total was boosted $22,100 when four permits were issued for the construction of four dwellings and two for alterations to existing buildings by the city building department Friday.

Chief project is alterations to the top floor of the Grand hotel. This calls for the expenditure of $10,000. Work to be undertaken will be the raising of the roof several feet and the interior remodelling of the rooms.

Plans for the alterations have been drawn by the Edmonton architects, Macdonald and Magoon, and the contract for the construction work has been let to J. R. McIntyre Co. Ltd.

Other permits issued included Windsor hotel, stuccoing and alterations, $900; A. J. Hanna, 12032 102 avenue, $3,500 frame and stucco dwelling; Val Taylor, 10015 148 street, $2,000 frame house; British American Oil Co. Ltd., 10504 Jasper avenue, addition to present office space, $2,000, and F. W. Duguid, 10907 85 avenue, $3,700 frame and stucco dwelling.

SHOUTS FOIL BURGLARY AT CITY GARAGE

Shouts of a woman foiled a burglary attempt on the premises of the Avenue Garage, 117 avenue and 94 street, at 1:20 a.m. Friday.

A Mrs. Garby, who lives in premises at the rear of the garage, states she was awakened by the crash of breaking glass. Looking into the garage part of the building she saw a man moving around in the dark.

Mrs. Garby went into the garage and saw another man near the door. She shouted and they both ran away toward 117 avenue. The woman thinks they got into a car.

Entry to the garage was obtained through breaking the glass in the upper part of the door and then reaching in to turn a Yale lock.

Police are investigating.

Captain Canfield Leaving Shortly For New Position

Capt. J. W. Canfield, for many years in charge of farm and city investments for the Great West Life Assurance Company for northern Alberta, has been promoted to the post of head office inspector of the company for western Canada, it was announced Friday.

Four members of the city police force who have served for long periods will retire at the end of the year, it has been announced by police officials.

The men, who have reached the age of retirement, are Insp. J. J. Shaw, morality division chief, Sgt. Edward Watson and Constables Sam Kennedy and Thomas Adams.

Insp. Shaw joined the force here in 1909, while Sgt. Watson went on duty here in 1913. Kennedy and Adams started in 1910 and 1912 respectively.

Edmonton Singer Wins Honors At C.N.E. Contest

Miss Kathleen Busby, talented young vocalist of Edmonton, who is studying music in eastern Canada, was awarded first prize in the lyric soprano class in vocal competition at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, Thursday, according to word received in the city Friday.

Miss Busby is studying on a scholarship provided by Sir Ernest McMillan, prominent Toronto musician and conductor. She was nominated to appear in the $500 scholarship competition to be held later at the Exhibition.

Military Projects Only Are Affected By Labor Ruling

The Dominion department of labor intimated Friday in a communication to Clayton Adams, chairman of the provincial industrial relations board, that the suspension of the eight-hour day on federal contract work in Alberta applied only to construction of the three military training camps at Red Deer, Camrose and Grande Prairie.

Mr. Adams had requested Ottawa to designate the projects covered by the suspension of the eight-hour day order. The eight-hour day was suspended to enable construction to be rushed so that military trainees could be placed in these centres as soon as possible.

Pay on the three projects will be on the basis of straight time under the Dominion government minimum wage regulations, the Ottawa letter intimated.

Provincial action has been taken to suspend operation of the Hours of Labor Act as applied to the three training camps.

BUTTERFLY IS UNUSUAL FIND TOTS BELIEVE

Here are two young chaps who have caught a butterfly—Yes, a butterly! And they think the world should know about it. They're called Richie Hay, 6, and his brother Skipper, 4, and they reside at 9537 Jasper avenue.

When we mumbled something about it getting late for such things, Richie declared rather importantly: "It's kinda late for winter". So there you have it! It's very wonderful catching butterflies and it's also "kinda late for winter". This is where we came in.

ALBERTA HAS LOWEST TOTAL RELIEF GRANT

Less relief was given Alberta in Dominion contributions in May than to any of the four western provinces, according to a report issued by the national registration branch of the department of labor at Ottawa.

Alberta's total for the month was 36,770, made up of 29,654 urban and 7,116 on agricultural relief.

Although the figures were compiled by Ottawa this province has not yet received grants for the month of May from the Dominion government, because no new 1940-41 relief agreement has been signed. No payments have been contributed by Ottawa to Alberta since the close of the fiscal year, April 1. It is expected that aid will be forthcoming, however.

Numbers on relief in other western provinces for the month of May were: Manitoba, 48,130; British Columbia, 60,578, and Saskatchewan, 125,907.

Fair Weather Is Friday Forecast: But Still Cool

Rather a change from the menu the weather playboys have been giving Edmonton lately, Friday dawned bright and warmer than any day this week. Citizens forgot to think about winter approaching and decided to look for a grand Alberta autumn. The weather forecast read "Fair, cool," which wasn't so bad either.

Thursday's highest temperature was 64 above, and the low 43 above, with no rain reported. The temperature at 8:30 a.m. Friday read 57 above, and the barometric pressure was 27.66 increasing.

Northern weather was mostly cloudy, with rain reported at Hudson Hope, and high winds at Ft. St. John, Beaverlodge, Fairview, and a smoke haze at Athabasca.

GAS BOARD FOR CITY WILL BE INTRODUCED

Civic Committee To Recommend Bylaw To Council Next Meeting

Appointment of a five-man gas board to administer a new gas bylaw dealing with gas installations, appliances and devices will be recommended by the bylaws committee at the next regular meeting of the city council. Decision to recommend the adoption of the new gas bylaw was reached at a meeting of the bylaws committee held Thursday afternoon under the chairmanship of Alderman F. C. Casselman, M.C., M.P.

It was recommended that the personnel of the board should be: one representative appointed by the Northwestern Utilities Ltd.; one representing the city; one each representing the master plumbers, and master sheet metal workers, and one to be appointed by the city council.

The new bylaw prohibits the installation of appliances and appurtenances after the passage of the bylaw, which have not been approved by the Canadian Gas Association Laboratory, approval division, the American Gas Association, [illegible] board appointed to administer the bylaw.

SAFE OPERATION

Appliances installed after the passage of the bylaw shall provide safety in operation in accordance with good engineering practice, a reasonable degree of durability, reasonable operating efficiency and adequate means for the proper disposition of the products of combustion in accordance with good engineering practice.

The bylaw provides that the gas inspector may direct the owner of any building in which there is installed any appliance which is installed contrary to the requirements of the bylaw to remove such appliance.

He may direct any owner of a building in which there is installed any gas piping system or appliances, whether they were installed before or after the enactment of the bylaw, which, in the opinion of the inspector, is in a condition or in a position which is dangerous from the standpoint of safety or health to remove such piping or appliance.

Power is vested also in the gas inspector to enforce any direction given by the gas board appointed under the bylaw's provisions.

Registration For Varsity Expected Near 1939 Figure

Recent compilation of the results of the circularization of male undergraduates at the University of Alberta by registrar's department officials, show that 88.5 per cent expect to return to classes when the 1940-41 term opens on September 27.

I Saw Today

ALD. A. BLAIR PATERSON assuring a friend that the city soft water plant would be in full operation shortly;

AND

Harry Stoffer on Jasper pondering on the luck of a number of people; Commissioner R. J. Gibb leaving the Civic block on a short inspection trip; J. N. McDonald leaving the Tegler building for the court house; George Beresford strolling along the main stem with a very happy look on his face; Jock Cruickshank discussing the second camp at Sarcee with a friend; Ray Peters rolling a smoke just outside a local business-house; Sid Parsons driving west on Jasper; Col. "Ted" Brown smiling at a friend at the Garrison; Elaine Calver loaded with books, heading for business college; Doug. Ireland discussing recent victories in model flying at Toronto.

Circulars were sent to 935 male students over a week ago, and to date 646 replies have been received. Of the total returned 573 expect to be back at classes this fall, while it is assumed that a large part of the replies signifying "no return" mean that the students have put aside their university studies for service with Canada's armed forces.

A. E. Ottewell, university registrar, said Friday that he anticipates a registration near last year's high total of 2,327 students. "Of course, with possible developments in the war, recruiting, and further plans as a result of the national registration, your guess is as good as mine as to the total number of students likely to be in attendance at the University of Alberta this term," said Mr. Ottewell.

So far 225 applicants have been accepted for admittance as first year students at the university here, Mr. Ottewell said. Another 100 applications are pending acceptance, and with registration date September 23 still over two weeks away, it is quite possible that the 1940-41 freshman class will be equal to the 550 enrolment last year.

OTHER FACTORS

There are many other factors, other than war developments, that have a bearing on registration figures, Mr. Ottewell pointed out. Many prospective freshmen have just received their high school supplemental exam results and are still "on the verge" of going to varsity, returning to high school, or going to business college or work. Also many former first year students who didn't make the grade, and have taken the prescribed "year of leave" may register to bring up the total.

Three hundred undergraduate students will write the annual university supplemental exams starting on September 16. Papers will be written at Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, and Grande Prairie, and at other university centres across Canada, it was announced by Mr. Ottewell.

Visits City

Making a tour of western Canada to survey conditions, J. L. Carson (above), Toronto, assistant general manager, Bank of Toronto, and J. A. Woods, Winnipeg, western superintendent, arrived in Edmonton Friday from Regina. The party was met by William Kerr, manager of the local branch, with whom they conferred while in the city.

THE HUMAN EYE

By Jackson Bros.

The human eye is the greatest developed eye of any moving creature in this world.

There are thousands of moving things on this planet that have eyes to see with but space will only permit describing a few as follows:

The Jelly Fish, the first eye on earth.

The Star Fish, carries eyes in its arms.

The Snail, eye begins to see human.

The Fish, brought better eyes.

The Alligator, eyes with flexible lens.

The Sphenodon, nature makes a third eye.

The Fly has eight hundred eyes in one head.

Rabbit eyes only see motion.

The human eye is the greatest of all, you just look around wherever you may be you will see buildings of fine architecture. Bridges, of enormous size and length to carry tremendous loads. Ships, representing fair size cities floating on the seas. Airplanes lifting and carrying tons instead of pounds and so on, etc., etc. None of these above mentioned works were even started until plans were drafted on paper showing every detail. These things could not have been produced and brought to such perfection had it not been for the human eye which carefully records on paper the result of each and every advance so that each design following may be builded better and better.

We could go on indefinitely with illustrations of what man has accomplished mainly because of the human eye.

Many people think that the human eye is weaker today than they were in older times, that is not so, we do seem to be loosing distant vision, shall we say as compared with the early North American Indian. He could see far and at a great distance, his eyes were trained for such from generation to generation. We on the other hand are, due to our city and industrial life, living a life from decade to decade looking at close range or at close objects, reading, learning from books where 90 per cent of our knowledge is gained, always working at close range, consequently eye defects become very noticeable and these deficiencies require to be corrected. Science has kept up with this requirement and has met the deficiency with lenses to correct what is lacking in so many cases, consequently there are thousands upon thousands that can hold positions in life by wearing correcting lenses. Without them they would be lost and could not hold their positions. One of the greatest examples of the recognition of the above is the Government's acceptance of men in the army who have to wear helping lenses.

Not many years ago young women would not wear spectacles because it apparently made them look old. Today the work the young women have to do in offices compel them to wear glasses or they would not hold their jobs, consequently science has devised spectacles which are to say the least becoming and the younger generation have thrown to one side the hide bound idea that helping lenses are only for old people. Science has discovered, due to our close work, that seven out of ten humans require helping lenses.

Look around and notice how many in any gathering, not old people but young, that are wearing helping lenses in the form of spectacles and you may realize that you yourself may be helped by lenses but you will never know unless you have your eyes examined scientifically.

There are yet many people going around quite satisfied with their vision because they never knew anything better, yet if examined and fitted with helping lenses they could and would enjoy life much fuller.

If you are bothered with headaches, backache or if you frown when reading, if the print runs together or if you do not see as well as your friends, have your eyes checked, the seat of your trouble may be there and if so when you get glasses suitable to you we are sure you will deem it the greatest acquisition of your life. The fine appearing Numont frame fitted with a pair of helping lenses, which we can and are qualified to fit you with, will accomplish what you need.

Our Optometrist has secured his degree by University examination and you can wear these glasses while paying for them by using our easy pay plan.

Consultations are free, make use of this, we invite you to do so. Call, write or phone 21747.

BANKER SEES SOLUTION OF WEST ISSUES

Bank Of Toronto Official Visits City For Conference

Confidence that a solution to the harvesting and marketing problems facing western farmers would be solved in the near future was expressed by J. L. Carson, Toronto, assistant general manager of the Bank of Toronto, who arrived in Edmonton Friday in the course of a trans-Canada inspection trip.

Mr. Carson is accompanied by J. A. Woods, Winnipeg, western superintendent. He was met by William Kerr, local manager, with whom he conferred on a program of activities during the party's three-day stay in the city.

The unity existing in Canada today, stated Mr. Carson, was one of the most hopeful signs for the future of the Dominion.

FACE COMMON FOE

"In contrast to a trip made three years ago with the Chamber of Commerce party," he stated, "the fact that we are facing a common foe has united the nation in a solid determination to see the war through to ultimate victory."

He added that "in a country as [illegible] operation is essential to our economic life."

Mr. Carson stated that the brightest minds in Canada were working on the grain harvesting and marketing problems facing western agriculture, and expressed confidence of an early solution.

Sudden cutting off of markets for western wheat was bound to reflect in a slowing down of western business, but some of this slack will be taken up when the full impetus of Canada's war effort in the industrial world extends to the west, he stated.

[illegible] ously, and industrial momentum gained in the war industries is rapidly [illegible] general business.

WAR LOAN

He expressed the opinion that Canada's second war loan would be an even greater success than its predecessor. "I am confident that the people of Canada will realize their responsibility in this matter, and that the loan will be a tremendous success," he stated.

Commenting on Edmonton's business prospects, Mr. Carson said that every report received would indicate that the city was developing particularly fast, and that it has a bright future.

Friday afternoon Mr. Carson and Mr. Woods will be hosts at a reception to be held at the Macdonald hotel at 4:30 p.m. [illegible] will meet branch managers from Edmonton district and Northern Alberta at an informal meeting to be held at The Macdonald. They will leave for Calgary Sunday evening, enroute to Vancouver.

ANCIENT GUNS REGISTERED WITH POLICE

Muzzle-loaders galore, several of extremely ancient vintage, are among the shotguns and rifles brought to city police headquarters for registration in compliance with Defence of Canada Regulations.

Some of the guns registered to date are more than 100 years old, according to H. R. Reynolds, city police department accountant who is in charge of the registration here. At least one of the rifles registered was manufactured in 1830.

To date 3,400 persons have registered firearms at police headquarters. About 9,000 weapons are registered.

Registration continues until September 15.

Edmonton's water softener plant will be in operation about mid-November, City Commissioner R. J. Gibb stated Friday. TAX TOTALS ON INCREASE WALKER SAYS

Land, Business Levies Up $69,640 For Eight-Month Period

Land and business tax collections for the eight-month period ending August 31, show an increase of $69,640.67 compared with the corresponding period last year, it was revealed in a statement submitted Friday to the city commissioners by City Assessor Thomas Walker.

Total collections for the 1940 period were $2,857,580.26 compared with $2,787,939.59 last year. Current land taxes during the 1940 period brought in $2,071,291.87, compared with $2,005,487, and arrears of land taxes collected in 1940 totalled $625,361.58, against $599,689.63 last year.

Arrears of business tax collections show an increase of approximately $2,000 this year, with $26,-193 coming from this source compared with the 1939 total of $24,-313.37. Current business tax collection shows a decrease of $24,000 for the period but this is accounted for by the fact that the discount period on this tax was extended until September 3.

Collections of business tax up to [illegible] crease of $15,022.48 over the corresponding period last year, which would indicate a general advance in the total tax collections this year.

[illegible] crease in tax collections was expressed by Mayor John W. Fry [illegible] crease was substantial when it was taken into consideration that the mill rate was reduced from 52 to 51½ mills this year.

This is the third mill rate reduction which has been made since Mayor Fry took office in 1938.

MARK DEUEL, a homesteader who keeps his business to himself

ASHTON OAKS, a land agent with town lots to sell

Yesterday: Mark finds Ed Taylor at the blaze, learns that Carrie had come to the Taylors' soddy. But with the fire across the creek, both men realize Mrs. Taylor and Carrie face new danger. Mark rushes to Taylor's, hoping that the women have taken the wagon to town. He finds the wagon overturned, the horses in their stalls.

CHAPTER XI

TERROR froze Mark Deuel's heart as he stood in Taylor's yard, watching the fire [illegible] closer, listening to the [illegible] wind, and knowing Carrie and Mrs Taylor had not escaped in the wagon.

For a long moment he seemed stunned, stood looking in at the horses through the gaping hole the wind had torn in the corner of Ed Taylor's barn. He was clammy with the thought of what might have happened to the women. A cyclone had ripped through Taylor's, raked the roof off one side of the barn, upset the wagon.

The wagon! The wagon! That was [illegible]

Mark remembered the overturned wagon by the dugout. With the first fury of that storm Carrie and Mrs. Taylor would have rushed for the shelter of Ed's shallow cellar. The wagon had overturned on the heavy door, pinning them in. Mark saw it all clearly now.

With a cry, he ran from the barn to the dugout, calling, "Carrie—Carrie—M—rs. Taylor! Are you in there? Are you all right?" But the wind swept his words away.

He reached the cellar, saw the storm had overturned only the light wagon box and that the door was free of the wheels. Almost frantically then, Mark tugged at the box, pulling it away.

"[illegible]! Mrs. Taylor!" he shouted as he jerked the heavy box.

Where Britons Bombed Berlin

Using parachute flares to counteract Berlin's black-out, night-raiding British bombers punished the German capital with a three-hour rain of death. Nazi censors claim little military damage was done but R.A.F. flyers report huge fires could be seen 50 miles away.

Held In Trotsky Assassination

At bottom is a picture of Frank Jackson pictured in Green Cross hospital, Mexico City, having his head wounds treated following the assassination of Leon Trotsky, leader of the Russian revolution. Jackson was said to be the confessed slayer of the former friend and more lately enemy of Josef Stalin, Soviet dictator. At top is the first picture to be made since the pick-axe slaying of Trotsky, of Sylvia Ageloff, the 30-year-old New York City welfare worker and friend of Jackson, who is held as an accomplice in the case. Refusing to have her face photographed, Sylvia buried it in her pillow. She is on what is termed a "suicide hunger strike" at the same hospital.

Mad Bombers

Chess For Life

This and That

IT WILL be "out tomahawks and scalp 'em" so far as the Bombers are concerned when they tackle the Regina Roughriders tonight in Winnipeg.

Judging from Winnipeg press comments, the Bombers are so mad they are fit to be tied. It seems that every time a Bomber has ventured abroad in Winnipeg since returning from the Calgary and Regina battlefields, some citizen has immediately seized him and demanded to know how come the dominion champs got walloped twice in a row.

Winnipeggers apparently are not impressed at all by the Bronks and Roughriders—but you gather that they are decidedly depressed about their Bombers. Fans are funny that way. They hate to give a rival club any credit. Instead they would rather consider that their home squad was stale, over-confident, improperly trained, got rotten breaks, was handicapped by injuries, robbed by whistle-tooters, just had an off night—or deliberately let them down by absorbing too much giggle-soup.

I am not suggesting that Winnipeg fans have made these charges or [illegible]. I'm just pointing out that the average fan does make them when his civic pride is suddenly humbled before the world.

Anyhow I gather from the writings of Joe Ryan and Eddie Armstrong in the Free Press that each and every Bomber is ready to explode with the anger which Winnipeggers' persistent questioning has developed within him and which has been [illegible] restrained since you can't fill a stadium with cash customers if you have put them all in the hospital before game time.

If the Bombers can't win tonight then their title chances this year are little more than a thin hope.

Chess Saved Alekhine's Life

JOHN KIERAN of the New York Times told a year in his column the other day after the assassination of Leon Trotsky of how Dr. Alexandre Alekhine, the world chess champion, owed his life to Trotsky's interest in the game.

Alekhine belonged to the Russian nobility and when the downtrodden proletariat arose with a bomb in one hand and the economic doctrines of Marx in the other they promptly tossed Alekhine into the sneezer along with all the other aristocrats.

In those days citizens in Russian sneezers were being dealt with on a slightly more humane basis than at present. Trotsky believed in a sort of scientific justice. If a nobleman could show any good reason why he should continue to live, Trotsky might release him.

Trotsky was checking over the prisoners personally when he came to Alekhine. The doctor gave his name. Trotsky was himself a pretty fair chess player and had long admired Alekhine's ability although he had never seen him. Alekhine had no way of proving his identity, so Trotsky brought out a chess board and [illegible] a game. The doctor was playing for his life and he didn't pull his punches. He gave Trotsky a classical licking. Trotsky immediately accepted Alekhine as the world's chess master, shook hands with him and released him from prison.

50-MILE BIKE RACE SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY

Saturday's 50-mile bicycle race, sponsored by the Silver Hawks club, will start from the corner of 104 st. and 80 ave. at 4:30 p.m. The course for the grind is down the Calgary trail to Kavanaugh, just south of Leduc, and back to the starting point and it is expected that at least two hours will be required by the contestants to cover the distance.

George Mayor of the Olympic club is favored to cop the race but from the entry list it would appear that he is likely to have plenty of opposition. George won the 25-mile July test and also was first in the 100-mile grind on Civic holiday. In addition he took the race to Alberta Beach.

George Chrismas, whose brother Bill was winner of several long distance events and who is a member of the Silver Hawks club, will make it tough for the other contestants and so will Alty Edwards who placed second in the 100-mile run. In addition Jimmy McLeod, the 15-year-old lad who finished third in the Civic holiday race to Red Deer and return, also has a good chance.

Another long distance man, Walter Lachman, has entered and there are also other likely starters from city clubs. It is expected Calgary will be sending a delegation as well.

The winner will receive the C.C.M. trophy and in addition other prizes have been put up by the Silver Hawks club.

Officials in charge include Jack Campbell, C. W. A. representative, Roy Haliburton, referee, and Barney Morrison, timer. Sgt.-Maj. Riddle of the city police force, will act as starter.

Four Clubs Bunched Inside Four Games

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Right now there is a good possibility in the American League that Cleveland, Detroit and New York will all be approximately tied by Tuesday when the world champion Yankees invade the west for two games with the Indians and three with the Tigers.

Detroit Tigers overwhelmed the Indians again yesterday 11-3 and the Yankees walloped Washington Senators in both ends of a doubleheader, 2-1 and 8-1. Boston Red Sox pounced on Philadelphia Athletics 9-7 and created the almost unprecedented situation of the entire first division being bunched inside 4½ games three weeks before the season ends.

Cleveland now has a .581 percentage against .566 for the Yankees and .565 for Detroit. The Indians and New Yorkers each have 25 games to play in the campaign while Detroit has 23. Boston is 4½ games behind Cleveland and has 22 left to play.

After trampling Bobby Feller Wednesday, the Detroit sluggers roughed up Lefty Al Smith and Joe Dobson yesterday, scoring nine runs in batches of three in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

The Yanks got an unearned run off Dutch Leonard in their first game, which Rookie Pitcher Ernie Bonham singled home. He also singled to help get the winning tally. In the nightcap Walter Masterson checked the champs on four hits for seven innings, but they blasted out three runs in the eighth and another three in the ninth.

In Boston, Red Sox scored six runs in the second and let the A's come right back for seven in the third.

Chicago White Sox stopped St. Louis Browns 4-2 in a night pitching duel between Ed Smith and Bill Trotter.

In the National League Cincinnati Reds conquered Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 to welcome Johnny Vander Meer back into the big time.

Brooklyn Dodgers kept their distance, eight games back, by beating out the Phillies, 8-5. New York Giants swept a doubleheader from Boston Bees 8-7 and 4-1.

Bombers Open Winnipeg Grid Season Tonight on Spot Against Roughriders

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6.—Winnipeg Blue Bombers make their first home stand of the Western Interprovincial Football Union season under floodlights tonight against Regina's surprising Roughriders and unless the dominion champions win, prospects for a fourth consecutive western title will be bleak. Bombers lost 12-1 at Calgary and 3-1 at Regina in the opening road trip last week-end. A loss today would make it practically essential that they win all five remaining games.

Roughriders surprised Bombers with their offensive and defensive power at Regina and Coach Reg Threlfall and his men are prepared for a bitter struggle today.

Cliff Roseborough, veteran lineman, summed up the Bomber regard for Riders. "That Regina club is better than it was last year," he said. "They've got a lot of youngsters ... there and lots of pep and drive. Some people think Regina should be a soft touch this year because Howard Cleveland and a couple of other guys have gone. But these guys won't be soft for anybody."

Threlfall figured Dan Capraru was the toughest Regina backfielder to stop and his defence was instructed to watch the former University of Saskatchewan halfback closely.

One ray of sunshine brightened the Bomber picture. Threlfall announced the veteran backfielders, Jeff Nicklin and Percy Daigle, would be available today. Both missed the first two games, Nicklin because of his duties with the Canadian Active Service Force and Daigle because of business reasons.

Regina To Use Same Lineup

REGINA, Sept. 6.—Regina Roughriders, riding high on their 3-1 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers here Monday afternoon, entrained for Winnipeg Thursday night in quest of another victory over the mighty Bombers.

Their workout was cut short by damp grounds Wednesday night, but nevertheless the 'Riders got in a light scrimmage as they attempted to brighten up their attack for their Winnipeg invasion on Friday.

Coach Griffing is concentrating on attack this week, feeling confident that his defence will stand up against Bombers. He feels that a little better blocking will make the 'Rider plays click at Osborne Stadium.

Little change will be noted in the lineup for the second game of the season. Every man out there against Winnipeg in the curtain raiser went well and Griffing will rely on much the same bunch.

There is the possibility that "Dough" Potts may be out with a bad ankle, but the Reginans are rich in young backfielders and many are eager to replace the injured youth.

12 Teams Enter Five Pin League

It was decided at Thursday night's meeting to defer the election of officers until the league schedule gets under way.

Black of Calgary Only Canadian Left

JASPER PARK LODGE, Sept. 6.—It's three chances to one for the United States to capture the Totem Pole golf championship. As a result of Thursday's play, Herb Black, Calgary, former holder of the title, is the only Canadian left.

Others to reach the semi-finals were Don Thompson, Portland, defending champion, Dr. D. H. Houston and Dr. R. Janson, both of Seattle. Thompson meets Black on Friday and Houston and Janson will meet.

In the ladies' championship the United States holds the honors as Miss Barbara Winn, Seattle, defending champion will meet Mrs. F. B. Ross, Kalispell, Montana, in the finals on Friday.

In the playoff for the men's qualifying round medal Don Thompson, Portland, turned in a sparkling card of 74 to defeat Wilder Ripley, Calgary, by nine strokes.

In the championship flight Don Thompson turned in a typical Thompson game against W. Hoggan, Nanaimo. He made the turn in 37 to be two up and then took the next four holes which included two birdies to end the match 6-4.

Herb Black began to show signs of trouble against Pete McIntyre, Trail, and was two down at the turn. McIntyre ran into some putting trouble but Black never made a mistake and turned his deficit into a lead to win the match on the 16th.

In the lower half of the draw Dr. Dan Houston, Seattle, met Alex McKinnon of Edmonton, and by steady golf moved to the semi-final bracket. In the bottom rung of the ladder, Dr. Janson, of Seattle, who upset the calculations by defeating Wilder Ripley the previous day, defeated Elmer Herb, Vancouver, handily.

ARMY PRAISES CANADA'S SPORT

Sandlot Games Build Soldiers of Empire

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 6.—The sandlots of Canada may yet become as renowned as the playing fields of Eton in the development of efficient and courageous soldiers of the Empire.

Sport, part of the army training curricula, has not only helped round out the army's general hardening process but also contributed towards a higher standard of morale and team spirit. That is the unanimous opinion of those responsible for turning out the finished soldier.

A British staff officer watching a group of Canadians in an inter-unit ball game had this to say:

"Your soldiers earned a well-deserved name as mighty fighters in the last war. Your [illegible] were among the best. We were told that [illegible] and daring was largely [illegible] of your men. If that is so the present generation of Canadians should compare favorably with the last.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS TO DON UNIFORM

All Males Must Become Part-Time Soldiers' Department Rules

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 6—Arrangements under which every physically-fit male student at the Canadian universities will eventually don the khaki and become a part-time soldier at his place of learning now are taking shape, the national defence department made known last night.

Outlines of the military training program at Canadian universities during the coming scholastic year have been sent by the defence department to officers commanding military districts.

Only a small proportion of students—most students are under 21 years—will be liable to compulsory military training under regulations promulgated so far by the department of national war services. But the university authorities have undertaken to see that all fit male students receive training in arms.

QUALIFY AS OFFICERS

They will receive it either in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps units already established in universities or under a new arrangement.

The C.O.T.C. has been established for years and forms part of the non-permanent active militia. Its purpose has been to enable youths receiving benefits of higher education to qualify for service as officers.

The plan adopted by the universities this year, after consultation with the defence department, is that students who were in the C.O.T.C. last year will remain in it together with a certain additional number of selected students who show promise of making suitable officers.

All others will receive basic military training similar to that given private soldiers in the N.P.A.M.

TRAIN LATER

Insofar as students over 21 years [illegible] may be liable to compulsory camp training are concerned, the war services department has undertaken that they will not be called for camp training until after the end of the scholastic year.

As rapidly as uniforms are available students in training, whether in the C.O.T.C. or the general student training groups, will be issued with battle dress. At the moment the demand for uniforms is heavy due to militia expansion but the supply is steadily increasing.

JOINT ACTION CANADA - U.S. IS ENDORSED

Sir Edward Beatty Says British - U.S. Alliance Should Continue

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 6.—"It has always seemed to me axiomatic that Canada must remain in perpetual alliance with Great Britain and the United States. The interests of these two great nations will, please God, never be divergent, and there is nothing to give alarm to the most ardent British patriot in the spectacle of British North America agreeing with the United States to make tangible plans for common effort against aggression."

Praise of the recent development of defence measures entered into with the United States was thus keynoted by Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and representative in Canada of the British ministry of shipping, in an address here Thursday night before a joint meeting of the Vancouver Board of trade, the Canadian Club and the Bar Association. Presenting a Canadian view of the war, Sir Edward went on to say: "With the United States, to whatever extent that country feels it desirable to participate, the British Empire must continue to prepare a military force capable of restoring order in the world."

NO SPUR NEEDED

Sir Edward's whole address was one of carefully considered optimism, bearing with it the firm conviction of ultimate success for the arms of Britain and democracy in the conflict with dictatorship.

"It is clear," he said, "that no artificial lashing of public enthusiasm for the war has been or will be necessary. If there ever was a war which was that of the ordinary man, a war in which our nation and our Empire were engaged, not to serve ambitions of a dynasty [illegible] this is such a war. It is a war in which the free peoples of the world have decided that in the name of God and of justice, we must be prepared to risk everything and do everything to guarantee that Christian civilization does not vanish from the face of the earth."

Sir Edward admitted the shortcomings of democracy in war, which was never to be ready. Faced with gansterism in Europe, and forced to accept the destruction of all civilization or fight, the free nations, in deciding to fight had at first found their efforts unduly feeble.

Making no effort to allocate the blame for this situation which existed, Sir Edward said, because the people of the democracies willed it to exist, he declared that while it was the fault of democracies to make such mistakes, history had made it clear that it was also the virtue of democracies to recover from them and to destroy the tyrants who would wipe them out.

SPIRIT OF REALISM

"Awakened," he said, "we showed a spirit of realism, of courage, of [illegible] of willingness to subordinate personal interests to the [illegible] defence, that makes it certain that we shall win the war."

Alberta Shipping 250,000 Bushels Of Grain Daily

CALGARY, Sept. 6—Alberta is shipping approximately a quarter of a million bushels of grain daily, it was disclosed in Calgary today.

Estimates of grain officials placed car loadings of grain in Alberta at 150 cars of approximately 1,600 bushels each daily. Cars are being shipped from points where there is the greatest congestion.

Delay in harvesting by wet weather is expected to relieve congestion of elevators to some extent as shipments will continue although deliveries will be held up until the harvesting is resumed.

Soviet Harvest Shows Increase

MOSCOW, Sept. 6.—Soviet Russia's state and collective farm harvest has drawn ahead of last year's pace, according to a government survey.

Bomb Splinters

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 6—Bomb splinters from the battle of Britain:

The evening service at a church in southeastern England was conducted around a bomb crater outside the building. All the windows were smashed, tiles were stripped from the roof and piles of plaster littered the edifice.

A family of five were machine-gunned by Nazi planes while picking blackberries on the Sussex downs. They took refugee in nearby bushes and this is how the mother described the interruption: "The murderous villians made us upset all those nice blackberries and I am sure the brambles tore this pair of stockings. When it was all over we started picking again."

The warning sounded at a cinema in Sussex. Few people left the theatre and the audience settled down to see the next film. The title: "One Hour to Live."

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—The market absorbed moderate profit-taking today and closed narrowly lower. The afternoon brought a flurry in western oils on rising prices which largely neutralized the weakness elsewhere in the list.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Leading stocks suffered a jolt from profit selling in today's market but the majority held up fairly well.

After 10 successive sessions in which the Associated Press average of 60 issues has been unchanged or higher, some traders got the idea that cashing in might be advisable as a precaution against weekend eventualities abroad. Closing declines ranged from fractions to a point or so.

A few utility, merchandising and other scattered favorites contested the move and clung to minor gains.

The Argentine government issued a crop report on Wednesday which confirmed considerable improvement following better weather conditions during August. Flaxseed and wheat are in good condition where seeding was completed on time. It is anticipated that some re-seeding may still be possible. Official acreage estimate will not be made until the middle of the month, but it is generally blieved that reductions will be shown generally. It was raining again on Wednesday and the country looks green and favorable and providing the weather continues favorable for the next four months, fair crops can be expected, with wheat showing a good increase over last season's partial crop failure.

Former Queen

LONDON, Sept. 6 — Princess Helen of Rumania, divorced wife of Carol II, was reported today to be planning to return from Florence, Italy, to Bucharest to be with her son, Michael, Rumania's new king.

Her marriage to Carol ended in divorce June 21, 1928.

Helen, a Greek princess, stood by the side of Michael when he was proclaimed king as a child in 1927, and watched over him when the kingdom was governed by a regency.

She chose an English nurse and governess for him, then an Oxford tutor. Michael spoke only English until he was nearly 10.

Helen dropped into the background when Carol took the throne in June, 1930, and went to Florence to live, but Michael paid her periodic visits. Under the divorce agreement, she was permitted to have him with her one month each year.

He said that by tonight the department of national war services will have compile "all the information necessary to placing 1,000,000 single men in training if necessary."

Horthy entered Oradea at the head of his troops and was welcomed enthusiastically.

The regent will remain with the army until the occupation is completed Sept. 13.

News of Rumanian events—including abdication of King Carol II—was received calmly here but a "watchful attitude" was being maintained, an official spokesman said.

Should Rumania's internal situation get beyond Rumanian control, it was said, the safety of the Hungarian minority in southern Transylvania and that in the northern portion not yet occupied might be endangered.

Writer Sees Work U.S. Destroyers To Be Doing In Convoy

The use to which Great Britain probably will put 50 over-age destroyers traded by the United States is described in the following dispatch by a British United Press correspondent.—EDITOR.

By BRYDON TAVES
British United Press
Exclusive Cable to Edmonton Bulletin

ABOARD A BRITISH DESTROYER, in North Atlantic, Sept. 6.—One of the jobs to which Great Britain expects to assign destroyers traded by the United States for naval base leases is the guarding of convoys which still ply British waters with an imperturbability astonishing to a landlubber.

For eight days I watched from the bridge of this typical escort leader the parade of merchantmen of all sizes through submarine-infested waters. Three were liners carrying almost 1,000 children to Australia. One was a rusty Dutch freighter in ballast. Others were heavily-loaded merchantmen or trim Swedish motorships or vessels with towering masts.

VESSELS OF ALL TYPES

A typical day for us began with orders to meet a convoy at sea.

Our commander told me the destroyers are ideal escort ships because they combine three essentials of U-boat hunters, high speed, suitability for the installation of detecting apparatus, and depth charge equipment.

We reached the rendezvous but there was no sign of the convoy we were sent to pick up. Standing orders are that the convoy must silence its radios and there is only one thing to do and that is to cruise up and down and across the convoy's route.

After four hours there was still no news of the convoy. A thick mist came up and we struck out eastwards hoping to meet the ships somewhere along the route. We finally caught up with the convoy early in the evening. It had slipped by us in the mist.

There was the same conglomeration of vessels of all descriptions and tonnage. One carried timber stacked high on the decks. Another brought ambulances, a third had a score of big crates lashed to the hatches. They looked like boxed airplanes.

ENCOUNTER U-BOAT

We were wallowing in rough seas. We rolled so much it was almost impossible to keep balance, standing, sitting, or lying down. Dinner of cold ham and salad shot right off the plate and skidded drunkenly across the ward room table. But the convoy plodded steadily toward its goal, with airplanes occasionally guarding us overhead.

A last bit of excitement was in store. As we were about to cross the bar to a west coast port, the instruments suddenly picked up a sound suspiciously like a submarine.

It seemed incredible there could be a U-boat so close to the shore but the attack signal was given and we went into action with depth charges.

The effect of our half dozen tins was devastating. I steeled myself for the shock and gripped the bridge rail but the exploding charges threw me off my feet. All lights went out on the mess deck. The whole ship chattered.

The lamp shades in my cabin fell in splinters. Plates and glasses bounced off the tables as great mountains of water shot into the air behind and around us.

It was our last attack, and the result never will be known.

Destroyers At Sea

BOSTON, Sept. 6—Eight United States' destroyers — presumably among the 50 swapped to Great Britain for naval and air bases—knifed through the high seas today apparently en route to a Canadian port, while navy forces trimmed others to speed in their wake. Five of the over-age destroyers steamed out of Boston harbor during the day. Three others left Wednesday night.

Pioneer Dies

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Sept. 6—Leander Hill, 87, father of J. R. Hill, deputy minister of natural resources in Saskatchewan, died suddenly here Thursday. Born at Five Islands, N.S., he came west in 1900 and farmed for many years in the Ethelbert and Dugald Dugald districts in Manitoba. He retired 20 years ago and had resided here for many years.

United States Uses Lots Of Publicity To Get Army Recruits

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—With a spectacular publicity campaign and energetic recruiting officers, the United States army has drummed up voluntary enlistment in its ranks to 40,000 a month—largest voluntary enlistment in the United States in peace or war.

Since May, when the preparedness program was started, enlistment has grown rapidly from 9,500 in that month to 23,000 in June, 31,000 in July and approximately 40,000 in August. These figures cover enlistments in the army and the army air corps.

Canadian visitors in the United States notice the first evidence of this recruiting campaign in posters and billboard advertisements in the cities exhorting young men to join up with Uncle Sam to keep America safe. The one most frequently displayed shows Uncle Sam in belligerent mood rolling up his sleeves for a scrap and a slogan alongside the picture says "defend your country; enlist now; U.S. army."

Fifteen thousand billboards are being used throughout the United States to drive home the message to American youth.

This weekend Sunday papers in 52 cities where there are main recruiting stations will carry large advertisements by the army urging voluntary enlistment. Evening papers in 536 cities where recruiting sub-stations are located will carry advertisements along the same line.

Suffers Burns

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 6—Nick Nastiuk, 38, was in hospital here today suffering serious burns after a can of gasoline hurled at him caught fire during a quarrel near a Canadian Pacific Railway section house east of Lethbridge early Thursday. Royal Canadian Mounted Police announced the arrest of a section foreman and said the man would be charged with causing actual bodily harm.

Newest Addition Canadian Navy Is Launched At Coast

A WEST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 6—Another addition to Canada's growing list of fighting ships—a trim Corvette type vessel—slid down the ways into the waters of a flood tide here Thursday night amid the cheers of a group of naval and military officials and the men who built her.

The ship was christened "Malpeque" after an east coast bay, by Mrs. G. L. Stephens, wife of Engineer Captain G. L. Stephens, R.C.N., in charge of naval construction on the Pacific coast. Mrs. Stephens smacked a bottle of champagne squarely across the bows of the ship and wished it godspeed as workers released the jocks and sent her down the ways.

TROOPS HEAR LECTURES AS WEATHER WET

Rain Interrupts Field Training, But Men Are Cheerful and Eager

By Bulletin Staff Reporter

SARCEE CAMP, CALGARY, Sept. 6.—Soldiers in training in this military encampment spent the whole day Thursday wallowing in a welter of rain which pelted unceasingly from a canopy of grey sky.

Units spent most of the day in their mess tents, listening to lectures from their company commanders on the "book learning" of soldiering, military law, hygiene, duties, march discipline and other subjects.

HOLD FORUMS

Despite the drizzling rattle of rain on the canvass of the marquees, the men were cheerful and eager, at many times turning the lecture periods into forums with their questions to the lecturers.

A few units went on short marches, wearing greatcoats or draping their shoulders with tarpaulin ground sheets. A short break with a brisk double around the battalion parade grounds sufficed for exercise for most.

Edmonton Fusiliers (M.G.) 2nd Bn., were to have gone to the rifle range for musketry, but their plans were cancelled.

The day's program called for reveille at 5:30 a.m., breakfast at six o'clock, move off to the butts at 6:40 and shooting at seven. This meant that cooks and a few others must rise at 4 a.m.

The sudden change in plans brought about a circumstance which boosted the commanding officer, Lt.-Col. H. B. Jamieson, onto the topmost pinnacle in the estimation of his troops. Long before four o'clock in the morning he rose, dressed and made the rounds of tents of the regimental sergeant-major, the bugler, the sergeant cook and his helpers, to tell them to stay in bed until their usual hour.

Then the colonel made the rounds of the tent lines while the men were sound asleep and loosened their tent ropes where they had been shrunk taut by the rain.

Col. Jamieson's constant concern for the well-being of his men has been noted by all ranks in the battalion. He made sure Thursday evening that every man was dry before he went to bed.

CONCERTS IN TENTS

In the evening the boys gathered in the mess tents again for concerts in which the talent among the men was put in service to brighten the tedium of a drizzly night.

An open air concert was held Wednesday night, the O.C. acting as master of ceremonies. The boys sang with the same gusto with which they do everything else. Capt. C. E. Brissette, adjutant of the battalion, led "Allouete" with action in every bar. Several members of the Kinsmen Club of Edmonton, members of the unit, sang chorus numbers.

The rain which fell over the Sarcee region Thursday also put a serious crimp into the training activities of the other Edmonton units. As with the Edmonton Fusiliers (M.G.) camp routine was restricted to a minimum, and most of the day was taken up with "in-the-tent" lectures on various theoretical parts of a soldier's training.

Perhaps the unit hardest hit by bad weather is the 36th Field Battery, R.C.A., of Edmonton and its affiliated unit, the 78th Field Battery of Red Deer. Most of the artillery training is confined to the guns and with wet weather, little opportunity is afforded the men to get practice on their gun routine.

The 2-49th Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, is going full blast and is right up with the ranking units here as far as progress is concerned. With a let-up in the wet weather it is expected they will be able to get in a good session at the rifle butts.

The 3,000 militiamen now in camp will train here until Sept. 15, then will make way for a similar number from points all over Alberta. The second group will be at Sarcee until Sept. 30 before returning home for training at nights.

Funeral Service For Archbishop Held In Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 6 — Solemn funeral services for Monsignor Georges Gauthier, 68-year-old Archbishop of Montreal who died Saturday, were held Thursday in St. James Cathedral.

Presiding at the solemn pontifical requiem high mass was Monsignor Joseph Charbonneau, new archbishop of Montreal diocese. Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, archbishop of the Quebec diocese, officiated, assisted by Mgr. J. C. Chaumont.

Heavy Rains Delay Field Operations In South Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 6—Grain growers abandoned hopes of being able to continue harvest operations until the beginning of next week in South Alberta following heavy rains, centering in a cloudburst at Magrath, Wednesday night and Thursday.

At Magrath more than two inches were recorded while in foothills areas, where harvest has become general, many points reported over half an inch of precipitation. The rain extended out past Grassy Lake, about 65 miles east of here.

Sugar beets are expected to put on considerable weight with the added moisture and ranges, withered by weeks of dry weather, will benefit.

Canadian Forces Given Education While In Service

By GLADYS ARNOLD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 6—No matter where a man is in training or on active service with the Canadian forces—land, air or sea—he may continue his education.

Educational services are under chairmanship of Lt. Col. Wilfrid Bovey and organized by the Canadian Legion War Services, Inc. The national committee on education acts on recommendations of technical advisory committees and today Dr. J. E. Robbins, chairman of three of these committees, explained the scope of the work planned.

Dr. Robbins, who heads the committees dealing with curricula, visual education and books and libraries, said elementary and secondary education for members of the armed forces include spare-time opportunities for learing trades and vocations which will aid in civil re-establishment and which are considered a psychological guard against boredom; good reading facilities at no or very small cost.

Authentic information on the war and Canada's part in it (aimed at the maintenance of interest and morale).

Such other educational help as may be possible or desirable for the men.

A uniform high school curriculum has been compiled through the offices of the provincial departments of education.

Investigation in some of the camps, Dr. Robbins said, shows the level of education for the majority of men in the forces is about grade eight.

DUBLIN, Sept. 6—Patrick McGrath and Thomas Green, alias Francis Hart, were executed by a firing squad today for slaying detective officer Richard Hyland.

FRENCH COAST SUBJECTED TO HEAVY ATTACK

British United Press

AT A SOUTHWEST COAST TOWN, England, Sept. 6—The heaviest British bombardment of the French coast yet seen from the English shores was carried out during the night and this morning with British bombers swarming to attack French channel ports.

Flashes of exploding bombs and the bursts of anti-aircraft shells were seen stretching from Boulogne to Dunkirk. The heavy crunches of the explosions were felt even in this town. The Germans fired a heavy barrage of anti aircraft shells and flaming "onions," but despite the magnitude of the German defenses British bombs continued to drop throughout most of the night.

German bombers likewise were active and at least two formations got over the southeast coast in greater numbers than have been seen so far. Most of the planes were hidden by a haze but the noise of their engines was terrific.

Lower Grain Rates To Pacific Coast Urged At Meeting

AGASSIZ, B.C., Sept. 6—The associated boards of trade of the Fraser valley and lower mainland, meeting here in their quarterly convention, have decided to press for lower freight rates on prairie grain.

A resolution presented by the Chilliwack board of trade and endorsed by the meeting, contended the British Columbia livestock industry is seriously handicapped by lack of cheap feed grain. The resolution added that hog and livestock production in the province would be multiplied many times if cheap feed grain were made available, thus aiding in the war effort.

Extension Of Time For Registering Firearms Is Asked

REGINA, Sept. 6—A communication has been forwarded to Ottawa from the Saskatchewan government recommending an extension of time to Oct. 1 for the registration of fire arms under Defence of Canada Regulations.

Instructions from Ottawa call for completion of the registration by Sept. 15.

Hon. J. W. Estey, K.C., attorney general, said Thursday that a shortage of registration books had made the request for the extension necessary.

"NO! NO! A THOUSAND TIMES NO"

Funny creatures, these men! Ask your husband to go down town and match a sample of silk and he'll think of a thousand other things he has to do. Ask him to stop on his way home to get stockings for the children, and he acts as if you wanted him to take on the shopping for the orphan's home. But ask him to buy the roast for dinner!—or pick out a turkey—or some nice steaks! He'll likely consent with alacrity. Men seem to be natural meat buyers—we've often seen them in our Meat Section, as interested as you are at a Fashion Show! Our shining displays and endless varieties of quality meats would delight any connoisseur! Suggest to your husband he drop in to EATON'S for the meat—it's one time he won't say "no."
